Lincoln County petition drive starts

by STEVE BROWN

Suburban Cook County voters may finally get a chance to voice their opinion on a six-year-old pipe dream aimed at seceding from Cook County and forming a new county not dominated by Chicago Democrats.

State Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, announced that he is starting a petition drive to get the secession question on the Nov. 2 ballot.

Both Regner and Palatine Village Pres. Wendell Jones, two long-time supporters of the secession idea, admitted the task of collecting what might amount to as many as 500,000 signatures before Oct. 2 could be impossible.

A NUMBER OF area leaders have pushed the idea of forming a new county since 1970, but the original proposal to create what Jones calls "Lincoln County" included only six Northwest suburban townships — Maine, Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Hanover Park and Barrington.

Regner said his proposal calls for all 30 suburban Cook County town-

THE 30 suburban townships in Cook County might become "Lincoln County" if efforts to force a referendum calling for secession from Cook County is successful. Backers of the effort may have to collect as many as 500,000 signatures to get on the ballot.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS firefighters took nearly three hours to bring under control a blaze which broke out in an unoccupied house at 519 W. Algonquin Rd. Monday afternoon. Fire damage to the house, which was being remodeled into a restaurant, was estimated by fire officials to be $25,000 to $30,000. Over-all value of the property is $100,000. No injuries were reported by fire officials.

Village goes ahead with garage plan

by BILL HILL

The Arlington Heights Village Board Monday night voted unanimously to proceed with the necessary steps for constructing a 500-car parking garage in the central business district.

The motion approved by the board included four points:

- Purchase of two parcels of land on the northeast corner of the intersection of Vail and Sigwalt streets.
- Sale or lease of a village-owned parking lot between Vail and Dunton streets, north of the Dunton Court Shopping Center.
- Obtainment of bids on a 500-car parking garage.
- Arrangement for the issue of revenue bonds to finance the proposed parking garage.

NEARLY 100 persons attended the meeting.

The estimated cost of the parking garage is $1.5 million. The financing plan recommended by Village Mgr. L.A. Hanson calls for the sale of the present parking lot north of the Dunton Court Shopping Center for approximately $260,000, with that money to be put toward the cost of the parking garage. The balance, $1.24 million, would be obtained through the sale of parking revenue bonds.

Hanson announced Monday night that three Arlington Heights banks have agreed to buy 47 per cent of the bonds at a 6 per cent interest rate. Also, a representative of the First National Bank of Chicago said he expects his bank to agree by the end of this week to buy the remaining 53 per cent of the bonds at a 7 per cent interest rate.

The motion to proceed with the parking garage proposal passed by a 7-0 vote. Trustees David Griffin and Madeline Schroeder did voice reservations about the plan because of the lack of commitment from a developer for the shopping center-office building proposed by village planners for a parking lot immediately north of the parking garage site.

VILLAGE PLANNER Joseph Kesler said he considers the commercial center essential for the success of the parking garage. He reported that several developers have expressed an interest in the proposal.

Kesler estimated that the commercial development would, by itself, use half of the spaces in the parking garage, and Earl Johnson of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce said a poll of downtown merchants shows that at least 155 spaces in the garage will be leased for employes at existing stores.

Elwood Barce of the Paul D. Speer financial consulting firm told the board that indications are that the garage will generate sufficient revenue to pay for the revenue bonds.

Four parking garage experts confirmed that $1.5 million is a realistic cost for a 500-car parking garage at this time.

Dist. 23 strike threat squashed; Dist. 59 accord

by JUDY JOBBITT
and DOROTHY OLIVER

A threatened strike has been averted in Prospect Heights Dist. 23, while Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 settled its teachers' contract prior to a union rally Monday night in Rosemont.

Dist. 23 received approval by the North Suburban Unified Bargaining Council to extend a Sept. 7 strike date to Sept. 16 in the hope of settling its contract and averting a strike.

Dist. 59 reached tentative agreement one hour before the rally. The settlement broke a stalemate reached in talks last week.

DIST. 59 teachers approved the contract calling for an 8.2 per cent salary increase which includes a 4 per cent increase for an additional year of teaching experience.

Base pay for teachers with a bachelor's degree and no experience is $9,900, up from $9,500 last year. Top pay in the district will be $20,858 for teachers with 30 hours beyond a master's degree and at least 15 years experience.

"We made a strong showing in negotiations. I think we got the best we could get," said Alma Parrish, union president.

Other changes in the current contract include an early retirement plan improvements in the maternity leave policy and improvements in the reduction-in-force clause for releasing tenured teachers.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS Dist. 23 negotiations have reached a stalemate over the union's demand to change the current merit-pay system to a standard salary schedule, said Ken

In last six years: report

Suburban tax rate out-gains city

A Herald staff report

Property tax rates in 26 suburban home-rule communities in the last six years have increased faster than in Chicago, the Civic Federation reports.

The suburbs include Palatine, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and Mount Prospect, which showed a 264 per cent increase.

The citizens' group Monday released statistics showing that tax rates in the 26 original home-rule communities have risen faster since home-rule taxing provisions were enacted in 1970, than in Chicago, which also has home-rule tax power.

The federation singled out Mount Prospect residents as the recipients of the largest tax rate of any community studied. While tax rates in Cicero rose 13 per cent since 1970, Mount Prospect residents saw their tax rates skyrocket by 264 per cent, according to the study.

MOUNT PROSPECT Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley noted that while taxes have risen, only a portion of the over-all increase is the village's.

"You must be aware that the 264 per cent figure includes every taxing unit in the village," Eppley said, adding that inflation also has caused the cost of government to increase.

The federation study did not look at non-home-rule communities to determine how much taxes in those communities have risen.

The home-rule power, which was granted under the 1970 Illinois Constitution, allows certain communities with a population over 25,000 to enact new taxes and raise property taxes without a referendum.

Mount Prospect Village Pres. Robert Teichert said a portion of the village's tax increases can be attributed to a $4 million bond issue for the library and village. The bond issue was approved without a referendum, under the village's home-rule authority.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS Village Pres. James T. Ryan questioned the logic of the study.

"Home-rule powers have given us new taxation vehicles which tend to mean we don't have to raise the property tax rate," Ryan said. He said the 27 per cent increase for Arlington Heights "seemed almost less than the rate of inflation during the past six years."

Palatine Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones also questioned the findings of the study, which reported tax rates for Palatine residents have gone up 94.2 per cent since 1970.

"It sounds like he is comparing apples and oranges. All tax increases have been with referendum and citizen input. Home rule has not made any difference," he said.

"I THINK it (the study) is trying to show that taxes are less in Chicago, and it's trying to attack the concept of home rule," Jones said.

A fourth community cited in the study, Des Plaines, showed an overall tax increase of 93.5 per cent since 1970.

Other Northwest suburban communities, including Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates and Elk Grove Village now have home-rule taxing authority, but did not qualify in 1970 and were not included in the study.

The study also concluded that taxes in all of the original 26 home-rule communities studied rose by more than 81 per cent since 1970, while the Chicago increase was 13 per cent.

The study reported that spending for schools accounted for 64 per cent in the suburbs and 43.7 per cent in Chicago. Spending for municipal services accounted for 13.5 per cent in the suburbs and 34.8 per cent in Chicago.

The federation also concluded that taxes increased faster than assessed valuation on property. It was also noted that despite rapid inflation, the assessments on single-family homes did not increase as rapidly as assessments on other real estate.

2 teacher unions in tentative accords

Teachers in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 and River Trails Dist. 26 reached tentative contract agreement Monday night with their boards of education in last-minute bargaining sessions prior to an areawide union rally in Rosemont. The Dist. 26 contract calls for a 7 per cent base pay increase and raises from $9,447 to $9,730. Top pay will jump from $18,884 to $22,094. Dist. 59 teachers settled for an over-all 8.2 per cent increase, raising the base pay from $9,500 to $9,900. Top salary in the district was increased to $20,850. Mount Prospect Dist. 57 teachers refused to release details of a settlement they reaching pending a vote of the board of education Thursday. Prospect Heights Dist. 23 teachers, the only Northwest suburban district without a contract accord, voted to return to work and continue negotiating until Sept. 16.

Man sought as link to girl

Police are seeking 24-year-old Thomas Urlacher of Algonquin Shores, Ill., as the man who drove a missing Mount Prospect girl to a rock concert Aug. 21, the last time she was seen. Mount Prospect Police Chief Ralph Doney said Monday Urlacher is still at large, although police have searched for him since last Tuesday. Police believe that Urlacher is the man who took 14-year-old Barbara Glueckert, 610 Russell St., to a rock concert in Huntley, Ill. Doney said that police hadn't released Urlacher's name until they had a chance to apprehend him. "For all we know, he might have taken off," Doney said. "I think he knows we're looking for him." Urlacher is being sought on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, Doney said. So far no charges of kidnaping or abduction are being considered, police said.

264% tax hike over 6 years

Mount Prospect showed a 264 per cent increase in property taxes during the past six years, according to the Civic Federation which reports 26 suburban home-rule communities had heftier tax increases since 1970 than Chicago. The citizens' group Monday said other Northwest suburban communities experiencing higher tax rate increases were Arlington Heights, 27 per cent; Palatine, 94.2 per cent; and Des Plaines, 93.5 per cent. During the same period, Chicago property tax rate increased 9.4 per cent. he 26 suburban communities were granted home-rule taxing powers like Chicago in 1970. Palatine Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones said the report was "comparing apples and oranges. All tax increases have been with referendum and citizen input. Home-rule has not made any difference."

Maine Twp. survey sought

A survey is being sought by a special task force to determine if the tax base is strong enough to support a city if unincorporated Maine Township were incorporated as a municipality. A spokesman for U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th, who helped form the task force, said the group will ask the Illinois Dept. of Local Government Affairs to assist in compiling tax revenue figures on the unincorporated area of the township which has an estimated population of between 25,000 and 35,000. The task force was formed in June after residents complained about deteriorating housing, inadequate police protection, flooding and impure drinking water in the area.

Pikarsky hints of progress in C&NW contract

by KURT BAER

Regional Transportation Authority Chairman Milton Pikarsky hinted Monday that some progress has been made toward a purchase-of-service agreement with the Chicago and North Western Ry.

Pikarsky said he plans to brief RTA board members on the negotiations and may be ready to make a public announcement on the status of contract talks with the railroad Wednesday at the RTA board meeting.

The RTA and the C&NW have been unable to agree on a purchase-of-service contract, and as a result, the railroad had petitioned the Illinois Commerce Commission for a 15 per cent fare increase.

PIKARSKY SAID Monday that he will "soon be in a position of sharing with the public what the issues are" in the negotiations.

He said the differences have been narrowed to the outright purchase of the C&NW favored by railroad officials or an RTA subsidy payment that "would permit the railroad some return on investment."

An RTA purchase-of-service agreement gives the transportation authority controls over railroad fares and schedules.

Joe Marren, spokesman for the North Western, said he knew nothing about any imminent settlement, but said it probably was an old offer under consideration.

"We've been kept pretty much in the dark about this, but we certainly are hopeful," Marren said. "They certainly know what we could live with, whether they are going to act on it or not."

THE NORTH WESTERN'S last offer was to sell the equipment for $43 million, with 1976-77 subsidies at $6.3 million and $1.7 million for 1977-78 subsidies. The RTA has offered direct subsidies instead of purchase of equipment, with a $5.7 million subsidy for fiscal 1977.

RTA board member B. Daniel Baldino, Evanston, also was pessimistic about the status of the talks. "We may have an agreement with the North Western sometime before we put a man on Mars."

Baldino, suburban board member Richard Newland, Highland Park, and Pikarsky have been representing the RTA in negotiations with the railroad.

IN OTHER ACTION Monday, the RTA board agreed to a $546,500 grant to the North Suburban Mass Transportation District for fiscal 1977. The grant, which should have been announced July 1, was delayed because of the RTA's failure to adopt a budget by the June 30 deadline. The Illinois Supreme Court ruled last week that the late budget was legal.

The RTA board could not agree on how to implement new higher fares and a universal transfer system throughout the region.

The new fare proposals would raise by an average of 10 per cent the cost of riding buses and trains that are a part of RTA. The universal transfer would make it possible to transfer between various bus lines and Chicago Transit Authority trains.

Russ navy built for aggression: Jane's

LONDON (UPI) — The swiftly expanding Soviet navy, which now has more than three times as many submarines as the United States, appears designed for a war of aggression against the West, the authoritative Jane's Fighting Ships said.

With its new 40,000 ton "Kiev" class aircraft carriers the Soviet Union also has started to challenge America's years-long supremacy in flat tops, it said.

The first of these already is in service, a second has been launched and one or two more are building, according to Jane's. It predicted a total of six will ultimately be built.

But even so, Jane's said, the United States remains predominant in carriers and attack submarines.

"The armament of the new (Soviet) ships and the introduction of carrier-borne aircraft has suggested an extended outlook beyond that of pure defense," Jane's said in a foreword to the 1976-77 edition by its editor, Capt. John E. Moore, a former deputy chief of British naval intelligence.

"When in the past a country with few overseas financial or colonial interests has embarked on the building of a considerable fleet," Jane's said, "the true aims of the ships concerned have proved to be not only protection of the homeland and the sea lines of communications which run to it but also aggressive activities designed to support national policy."

Jane's listed total Soviet submarine strength as 135 nuclear and 255 diesel-powered vessels. The United States has 105 nuclear subs and another 31 under construction, but only 12 diesel-powered craft, with another three in reserve.

The American underwater fleet, however, includes 73 attack submarines, and 27 of those now being built are in the same category — designed specifically to seek out and destroy enemy submarines. The Soviets have 40 nuclear and 122 diesel-powered attack submarines.

Jane's said the Soviets are pushing ahead with a formidable submarine building program including more nuclear boats armed with low-level cruise missiles, short-range ballistic missiles and intercontinental missiles with a range of 4,200 miles, able to strike targets throughout North America, China and western Europe from patrol areas close to their Arctic ocean bases.

The United States continues to wield an overwhelming lead in carriers, Jane's said. The present task force consists of 13 flat tops — two of them nuclear-powered — a fourteenth used for training and two more nuclear-propelled vessels scheduled to enter service in the next five years.

Jane's described Russia's new "Kiev" class carriers as "an impressive and logical advance." The first of these steamed into the Mediterranean recently from the Black Sea.

The Soviet Union has a small numerical edge in other warships, Jane's said, with 37 cruisers, 206 destroyers and frigates and 175 corvettes compared to the United States' 26 cruisers, 166 destroyers and frigates in service and 26 destroyers under construction.

Court squabble delays Harris pair sentencing

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — William Harris angrily assailed the judge and a probation officer at the sentencing session at his kidnap-robbery trial Monday, yelling that they should sit together on the judicial bench.

Last-minute motions by the defense for a mistrial and a squabble over the probation report delayed until Tuesday Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler's handing down sentence for Harris and his wife, Emily, for their part in a 1974 shooting incident also involving Patricia Hearst.

The Harrises face possible sentences ranging from probation to five-years-to-life terms.

Brandler advised the defense that the probation officer, Mrs. Doris Feldman, had recommended against probation for either of the former Indiana University sweethearts who later joined the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Defense Lawyer Leonard Weinglass called Mrs. Feldman to the witness stand and after interrogating her about the recommendations against the Harrises turned over questioning to William Harris who had been permitted by the court to act as his own attorney.

Mrs. Feldman said repeatedly Harris had shown "bitterness" against society and finally Harris exploded.

"This shows what kind of a probation department you have," he yelled at Brandler.

"You and her go together very well. She might as well be sitting up there with you. I don't want to have to look at your face any longer."

Brandler stared impassively and said from the bench: "Well, you're not going to have to. We're about at the end of the line."

Mrs. Feldman said Harris had made some "vicious" statements about the judge when she interviewed him in jail but that she had omitted them from her report at Harris' request.

The defendant challenged her to say on the witness stand what the remarks were.

"You said that the court was deranged and crazy," Mrs. Feldman snapped back. "You said he was determined to be appointed to the appellate court and to handle other notorious trials but that you had held him up for all the world to see about what you had done to him."

Weinglass earlier had introduced a series of motions for mistrial including one that the 12 regular and four alternate jurors in the case be called back to take lie detector tests about possible prejudice in reaching a verdict.

THE FEDERAL Election Commission approved Monday the League of Women Voters' sponsorship of debates between President Ford, left, and Jimmy Carter. This composite has the two candidates speaking with their goal — the White House — between them. Ford has said he "can't wait" for the debates and Carter said he wants to "cross-examine" his opponent. LWV, Ford and Carter representatives will meet Wednesday to work out ground rules for next month's debates.

Soviet sub, U.S. ship collide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Russian nuclear-powered submarine collided with the U.S. Navy Frigate Voge in the Mediterranean Sea Saturday afternoon and both vessels sustained some damage, the Pentagon disclosed late Monday.

The extent of damage to the submarine or injury to her crew was unknown but the Voge was disabled with damage to her propellor and was under tow to Soudha Bay on the island of Crete. One American sailor apparently suffered a broken arm. The submarine was observed on the surface following the collision but did not respond to offers of assistance. The incident took place in the Ionian Sea near Greece, the Pentagon said, and while there were other units of the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the vicinity — the nearest six miles away — there was "no exercise going on at the time."

According to the Pentagon report, the raised superstructure of the submarine came into contact with the rear section of the frigate at about 5:30 p.m. local time on Saturday.

'Curing patients . . . bad business'

Moss probe hits 'Medicaid mills'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Many of the medical clinics serving the nation's poor are really designed to make money rather than heal the sick, a Utah senator who posed as a welfare patient said Monday.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, who posed as a welfare patient to gather information on the $15 billion-a-year federal Medicaid program, claimed as much as a quarter of the money may be wasted, some of it through outright fraud.

David Mathews, head of the Health, Education and Welfare Department, however, told President Ford and other Cabinet members that Moss was merely "grandstanding."

Moss said the manager of one privately operated clinic which sees low-income patients, and is repaid with Medicaid funds, told his investigators: "Medicaid isn't medicine, it's business. Curing patients is good medicine but bad business."

Investigators for Moss' long-term care subcommittee of th Senate Committee on Aging call this kind of clinic a "Medicaid mill." Posing as patients they visited 200 of them in New York, California, New Jersey and Michigan.

"If you're not sick," Moss said, "you won't be told you're not sick. If you are sick, the odds are you won't be helped."

Joseph H. Rodriguez, head of the New Jersey Commission of Investigation, testified 12 clinics were examined in the state and, on the average, the doctors were required to turn over 50 per cent of the money they received through Medicaid to operators or landlords.

Subcommittee investigators said it is not known how many "Medicaid mills" exist, but there may be 350 to 1,000 in New York City alone. Moss said 75 per cent of Medicaid funds may go to them, rather than to regular hospitals and nursing homes.

He said about $1 billion a year may be going "to entrepreneurs who essentially provide no health services."

La Soufriere volcano erupts; 5 hurt

POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe (UPI) — La Soufriere volcano erupted Monday in a shower of rocks, mud and ashes that slightly injured five scientists at the 4,900-foot mountain's summit.

The volcano shook the ground for 15 miles around in a 10-minute tremor before its brief eruption, which pitched boulders down the slopes and spewed rivers of mud from new cracks in the peak.

A column of black smoke and volcanic ash that rose above the fuming crater was visible throughout this French Caribbean island.

Three members of a 12-man scientific team were caught in mudslides near the summit and rescued by helicopter, officials said.

Dr. Richard Fiske, monitoring La Soufriere's activity for the U.S. Geological Survey, said the explosion was "a very large eruption." But French scientists said the incident was another in the series of strong tremors and minor eruptions that have shaken La Soufriere since danger warnings and mass evacuations began Aug. 15.

Bernard Pagnon and Dominique Rougier, Guadeloupe press officials, said the explosion was not the major upheavel that has been predicted.

Pagnon said five scientists including Haroun Tazdieff, a volcanologist sent from Paris to study La Soufriere — were hit in the legs and back by flying rocks. All were taken to a hospital in Pointe-a-Pitre, but were expected to be released with minor injuries.

"All the manifestations of a major eruption are becoming stronger all the time," Rougier said. "But we don't know if this is the last signal before the big eruption."

Guadeloupe authorities ordered the area in the immediate vicinity of the volcano evacuated Aug. 15 after French volcanologist Pierre Brousse predicted La Soufriere would erupt "within 12 hours" with the force of several Hiroshima-sized atomic bombs.

Fiske, sent down by the USGS along with colleague W. T. Kinoshita to study the volcano, said he thought Monday's blast was the expected major eruption that monitoring would continue.

The 72,000 refugees from Basse-Terre, the western half of the butterfly-shaped French overseas province, have been living in vacant schoolhouses or staying with relatives since the evacuation.

Authorities have allowed them to return to their homes only to check their belongings, feed animals or tend crops. All have been required to leave the danger zone before nightfall.

Reds seize S. Korean fishing boat

North Korean gunboats Monday fired on and seized a South Korean fishing boat that apparently strayed into Communist waters in the Sea of Japan, but both sides played down the incident. South Korea's announcement of the seizure said the Communists fired on the fishing vessel, but did not say if any of the 23 crew members were killed or injured. The Seoul government said the vessel apparently strayed into North Korean waters in a heavy fog. North Korea said only that an "unidentified vessel" was detained. The seizure came on the eve of an expected meeting of the Korean Military Armistice Commission to discuss ways to reduce tension caused by the Aug. 18 ax-slaying of two U.S. Army officers by North Korean guards at the truce village of Panmunjom.

Syrian troops on full alert in Lebanon

Syria has placed its forces in Lebanon on full alert on the eve of a key visit to Damascus by Lebanese President-elect Elias Sarkis, a Palestinian spokesman said Monday. Christian militia chiefs meantime met to forge a unified stand on a new Arab League peace plan as fighting slowed on the country's three warfronts. Rightist and leftist sources said there appeared to be a "military freeze" short of a cease-fire until Syria's position on the truce plan became clear.

Blast contaminates 10 with radiation

A chemical explosion on the Hanford Atomic Reservation blew out a protective plexiglass panel Monday, contaminating ten persons with a radioactive substance. The explosion occurred in a plant used to separate radioactive americium from spent reactor fuel. It is 12 miles from the nearest nuclear reactor on the vast reservation in southeastern Washington. Officials said the blast posed no threat of radiation in the atomsphere. "We don't expect any health problems in connection with this," said Hal Lindberg, spokesman for Atlantic Richfield Hanford Co., operators of the plant.

Claim Soviet microwaves meant to harm

The president of the American Foreign Service Association said in Washington Monday the Russians have been beaming microwaves at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow to harm personnel, not to gather information. The official, John D. Hemenway, accused the State Department of misrepresenting what is going on. But the governing board of his own association disavowed Hemenway's appraisal of the situation. Hemenway — target of a removal movement by some members of the association — told a news conference, "Since the mid-50s, the Soviets have been directing microwaves against U.S. personnel not for the purpose of intelligence collection, but to damage personnel."

Carter vows commitment to Israel

Jimmy Carter said Monday he is committed to Israel's survival as "the fulfillment of a biblical prophecy" and that he would take personal responsibility for the CIA and FBI as president. Meeting with about 70 Jewish supporters at a "leadership conference," Carter also said he will not respond to any "personal" attacks by Republican critics. He said Robert Dole, the GOP vice presidential nominee who has been attacking him, will be answered by Carter's own running mate, Walter Mondale, and that Cabinet officers will be answered by press secretary Jody Powell.

The competition, the first Illinois championship ever staged, was held in connection with the Chatham Sweet Corn Festival.

Report Kosygin suffers stroke, nearly drowns

LONDON (UPI) — The Evening News reported Monday that Russian Premier Alexei Kosygin suffered a stroke while swimming in the Moscow River and nearly drowned. Soviet officials refused to discuss the story.

The report by Victor Louis, the Evening News' Moscow correspondent, said Kosygin's condition was "said not to be serious."

The 72-year-old premier has been the No. 2 leader in Russia since Communist General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev deposed Nikita Khrushchev and assumed power in 1964. He has held senior positions in the Soviet regime since the era of dictator Josef Stalin.

The newspaper said Kosygin's bodyguards were with him when he became ill.

"Only the vigilance and quick reaction of his personal bodyguards saved Kosygin from drowning," the Evening News said.

"He was given oral resuscitation and owes his life to this and the fact that professional help was immediately available."

In Moscow, a spokesman at the Press Department of the Foreign Ministry, which handles queries by foreign correspondents, brushed aside a question about Kosygin and said he was "not responsible."

The official at the Council of Ministers, of which Kosygin is chairman, said he had no information beyond the fact the premier was on vacation.

Questions about the private lives of Communist Party or government leaders are rarely answered in the Soviet Union.

Kosygin was last seen in public July 22, when he met a visiting Algerian minister. His subsequent absence from the public eye was not thought remarkable because most Soviet officials — including Brezhnev — take their vacations at this time.

Japanese sources said officials told a delegation of Japanese industrialists that Kosygin was too ill to see them Aug. 11. The authorities gave no indication of the nature of the illness nor how serious it was.

360 traffic deaths forecast by council

The National Safety Council in Chicago estimated Monday that from 360 to 460 persons will die in traffic accidents during the three-day Labor Day weekend. It said between 15,000 and 18,000 persons may suffer disabling injuries in accidents on the highways during the holiday weekend.

Council Pres. Vincent Tofany said motorists will travel more miles than ever before in their Labor Day holiday weekend. Council statisticians calculated that motorists will travel a total of about 13.1 billion miles between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday, Sept. 6. This compares to 12.6 billion miles for the 1975 holiday period and 11.8 billion for the Labor Day weekend of 1974, when the energy crisis restricted driving.

Man, 58, indicted in arson case

A Cook County Grand Jury Monday indicted Fred Hodges Jr., 58, on charges of arson and murder in a fire in which three children died. Hodges was arrested at the scene of the fire Friday at the three-story, six-apartment building on the West Side of Chicago. Witnesses pointed him out to police as the man they saw leaving the building after the fire started.

The children who died were Andrew Moore Jr., 5, his sister, Sheila Moore, 3, and their half-brother, Tony White, 5. All died of smoke inhalation. Andrew Moore, Sr., 25, arrived as the fire started and was able to arouse more than 30 residents who fled to safety before he reached the third-floor apartment in which his own children died.

Hazelcrest S&L robbed of $1,000

A man with a sawed-off shotgun Monday robbed the southwest suburban Hazel Crest office of the Home Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of about $1,000 authorities said. Witnesses said the gunman wore dark clothing, gloves and a skull cap. He fled in a foreign compact with an accomplice at the wheel.

Psychiatric tests ordered

Two men accused of fatally stabbing a college student 15 times in the head, back, chest and eye at an Evanston shelter-care home where he worked last week were ordered Monday to undergo psychiatric examinations. Michael Stern, 20, Wilmette, was killed Thursday as he watched television in the Evanston Ridgeview Sheltered Care Home for former mental patients.

Stern was to have worked one more week as a telephone operator and receptionist at the shelter. He was stabbed with two 8-inch knives which were found near his body. He would have been a sophomore at the University of Iowa this fall.

Lester Cahill, 50, and Philip Weber, 25, who were charged with Stern's slaying Friday, appeared in the Evanston branch of Cook County Circuit Court Monday. Associate Judge Brian Crowe ordered the two men to undergo the tests and also said they were to be held in the county jail under $500,000 bond. He continued the case until Sept. 27.

Judge asked to OK TV coverage

Attorneys for CBS Inc. Monday asked a federal court judge in Chicago to issue another order permitting television camera crews to film Illinois Commerce Commission hearings. Attorney Merle L. Royce said a temporary restraining order issued by Chief U.S. District Court Judge James B. Parsons on Aug. 6 against the ICC expired last week. The injunction prevented the ICC from barring television camera crews from its hearings. Royce also said U.S. District Court Judge Prentice H. Marshall has not yet ruled on Royce's request for a preliminary injunction in the case.

Teachers ordered back to classrooms

Sangamon County Circuit Court Judge Paul Verticchio Monday issued a temporary injunction ordering striking Springfield school teachers back to work Tuesday. The 60-day injunction also orders the Springfield Board of Education not to impose wage freezes and to give teachers their yearly salary increases. Negotiations were scheduled to continue. The Springfield teachers walked off their jobs last Wednesday.

In other school news:

- Members of the Marion Education Assn. went on strike Monday with the first full day of classes scheduled for Wednesday. The association called for around-the-clock negotiations and said it had called both the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service and the school board, but that no negotiations were scheduled.
- Classes resumed Monday for 1,400 high school students at Carbondale Community High School after the school board and teachers ratified a new contract.
- Vandalia Unit 3 School District officials requested a temporary injunction in Fayette County Circuit Court in an effort to end a teacher's strike in its second week. Judge Raymond Horn of Salem set a hearing for 3 p.m. Tuesday.
- Negotiators representing the Herrin Unit School District and Herrin Education Assn. reached tentative agreement on a new contract. William Clarida, unit school superintendent, declined to give terms of the tentative settlement pending votes by teachers and the school board. Classes were scheduled Tuesday morning.

Workmen's comp restricted

Gov. Daniel Walker Monday signed a bill to restrict the amount an injured worker can get in workmen's compensation benefits. Business groups had sought more sweeping changes in the workmen's compensation law, which is designed to help workers who are hurt in on-the-job accidents.

The bill (S1967) establishes the average statewide weekly manufacturing wage as the maximum award an injured worker could get in any one year. That amount currently is $12,033.84 annually. Death or permanent disability payments may be up to two-thirds of that amount. As the law stood, an injured employe could get half his own wage in annual benefit, without a ceiling.

The measure also includes provisions to exempt any farmer who employs less than 500 man-days of labor per calendar quarter and any business with a payroll of less than $1,000 per year. It also provides that workers cannot collect benefits from a disease unless it is caused or aggravated by his work and exempts domestic employes from coverage until July 1, 1980. It takes effect Oct. 1.

Regner starts petition drive

Nov. 2 vote on Lincoln County?

ships to be included in the new Lincoln County proposal.

The original impetus for forming the new county came from suburban officials who charged that Cook County government was being unresponsive to suburban needs.

"The Cook County Board, with domination by Chicago, does not represent the suburban area in any other way than additional taxes to support Chicago programs," Regner said.

HE DENIED THE timing of the effort was a political stunt and cited such matters as the new Cook County gasoline tax as another reason for the suburbs to secede and form a new county.

Jones admitted that he preferred the creation of several new counties within the suburban area, but added that a separate county for the suburbs was preferable to the current situation.

"This might be the first step and we can go on to separating into smaller counties after we secede from Cook County," he added.

Regner said he has sent some petitions to other suburban members of the Illinois Senate.

REGNER SAID THE effort might have to gather up to 500,000 names in the entire county by Oct. 2 and have the county board approve the referendum question for the November election.

He added the number of signatures needed to qualify the referendum remains a point of contention and has delayed efforts to get the petition drive underway. He said some experts indicated the signatures would be needed from a majority of voters from throughout the county, including Chicago, or simply from the suburban area.

Jones said he believes there is an "awful lot of latent Lincoln County interest beyond the Northwest suburbs."

"Getting 500,000 signatures will be difficult, but is not beyond the realm of possibility," he added.

IN A QUESTIONNAIRE sent to residents in the 3rd Legislative District last spring, 76.3 per cent of the people responding said they would favor the creation of Lincoln County.

Regner said he has discussed the petition drive with others, including State Sen. Donald A. Moore, R-Midlothian, and State Sen. John Nimrod, R-Glenview.

He noted that if the effort does not produce the necessary signatures for this November he would attempt to get legislation approved in Springfield aimed at reducing the number of signatures needed to get referendum questions on the ballot.

The effort to get the secession question on the ballot in November is expected to draw heavy opposition from Chicago Democrats.

Regner predicted that Chicago efforts to drain more revenue from the suburbs will be seen when the Regional Transportation Authority attempts to implement a 5 per cent tax on gasoline sales in the suburbs.

3 airlines sued over lax security

Cook County State's Atty. Bernard Carey Monday sued three airlines for failing to provide adequate protection for passengers at O'Hare Airport.

Named in the suit are United Airlines, Trans World Airlines and Ozark Airlines. All three use personnel provided by Andy Frain Inc. to operate weapons-detecting devices.

Carey charged the airlines are in violation of state law by employing nonlicensed personnel. He said much of the airlines' security against terrorist attacks at the nation's busiest airport is left to untrained high school students who operate the weapons-detecting devices.

MICHAEL FRAIN, president of Andy Frain Inc., said the suit stems from whether his firm should be regulated by the Illinois Detectives Act.

"That's an act that regulates guard agencies, but we are not a guard agency," he said.

Frain said he doesn't understand the purpose of the suit since his firm filed its own suit in July to settle the question.

Neal Callahan of the Federal Aviation Administration, said the use of Frain personnel is well within federal guidelines.

"OUR CONCERN is that there is adequate protection, and as far as we are concerned it is being provided," he said. "They are in compliance with federal regulations."

Frain said at other airports the airlines either hire their own personnel, use guard services or another type of manpower organization like his company. He said his employes do not carry guns and do not act as a security force.

"There is a Chicago policeman at every checkpoint," he said.

The suit asks the court to halt the airlines use of unlicensed personnel to operate the weapons-detecting devices.

Schools compensated for tax levy loss

Elementary school districts in Northwest suburban Cook County will receive almost $369,000 in the next two years to cover losses to the districts from changes in property assessment.

The money will be given to the elementary districts, which stand to lose tax revenue because state law now requires property to be assessed at 33.3 per cent of market value. Prior to the law, counties determined their own assessment rate with some above and others below the 33.3 per cent rate.

Gov. Daniel Walker Monday signed bills giving $11.7 million to schools in 33 counties affected by the change in assessment procedures. Suburban Cook County schools will receive slightly more than $1 million in 1977 and 1978.

THE STATE legislature last year passed a bill setting the assessment level for real estate property taxes at 33.3 per cent of market value. For the 33 counties assessing at a level above 33.3 per cent, including Cook County, the drop meant a loss in property tax dollars for schools.

The grants approved Monday by Walker are intended to cover the difference between the revenue the districts received at the higher assessment rate and the amount they will receive under the lower rate.

School districts in the Northwest suburbs will receive the following grants in the next two years: Palatine Township Dist. 15, $50,572; Wheeling Buffalo Grove Dist. 21, $30,108; Prospect Heights Dist. 23, $6,612; Arlington Heights Dist. 25, $29,302; River Trails Dist. 26, $9,658.

Also receiving money will be Schaumburg Township Dist. 54, $53,812; Mount Prospect Dist. 57, $14,884; Elk Grove Township Dist. 59, $134,350; Des Plaines Dist. 62, $10,813 and East Maine Dist. 63, $28,482.

Legislators OK tax levy to save Brookfield Zoo

State legislation has been enacted that will allow the Cook County Forest Preserve District to levy a tax of up to 2.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation for Brookfield Zoo.

The levy, which would take effect in 18 months, is seen as vital for the future of the zoo, said Corwith Hamill, chairman of the Chicago Zoological Society board, which operates the zoo.

"It was originally planned that taxes would support the zoo's basic operations, but with inflation of the last 10 years, the zoo's financial situation has changed drastically," Hamill said.

HAMILL SAID taxes once sustained 70 per cent of the budget, which is currently some $4 million, but tax money now accounts for only 30 per cent of the budget.

Currently about 50 cents in taxes paid to the county forest preserve district go to the zoo. The new levy would mean taxpayers will pay $1.30 to the zoo.

"It is not a solution to all our financial problems," zoo director George B. Rabb said, adding that the zoo faces a projected $500,000 deficit in 1977 in addition to the current $138,000 deficit.

He said appeals will be made to foundations, businesses and individuals to help the Zoo's financial situation until 1978, when the levy can be instituted.

Some $15 million in improvements and repairs also will be needed in the near future, zoo officials say. Current renovations, including construction of the new Tropic World house, are being funded with money from a special forest preserve district bond issue.

Harper receives $10,000 from Searle

The Harper College Educational Foundation has received a $10,000 gift from G. D. Searle and Co., Skokie, to be used toward the Education Industry Interface program. The contribution is the second portion of a $30,000, three-year pledge by Searle.

The interface program is the result of efforts by businessmen and college officials to increase communications between education and business in the Northwest suburban area. The first phase of the program has brought business executives to the campus where they serve as resource persons for a day.

Budding journalists

All the news that fits kids aim of youthful reporters

by JOE SWICKARD

Did you read about the big clubhouse fire?

Well, how about the feature on "Lucky People" or the time John Palatine and Danny Hawkins had to walk all the way back home — "a mile, over hills" — because they lacked a penny for a Slurpy at the 7-Eleven?

If you haven't, then you haven't been reading Arlington Heights' newest newspaper, The Arlington Heights Kids Newspaper, Edited For Kids Only.

The village's latest entry in the world of journalistic enterprise is a weekly four-page offering by a group of 10 to 12 year-olds living on Chesterfield Drive.

THE PAPER'S staff recently paused in the preparations of their next edition to talk about their summer project.

As editor-in-chief Sten Lindblom explained, a group of local youngsters got together last summer and decided to give newspapering a whirl. The result was three issues before school took over their time.

Having past experience, Sten said, they thought they'd give it another go this year.

With a staff of five, some of whom joined after first subscribing to it, they cover their neighborhood around Surrey Ridge.

"We go door-to-door asking if the kids have any news, and if they want to buy the paper," Sten said.

ALTHOUGH STEN is editor-in-chief and the paper is put together around his dining room table, other staff members, cartoonist Curtis Klauzek, reporters Susie Ebbert, Steve Prince and John Palatine, have a voice in how the final product appears.

"Yes, we have arguments about where the story should be or who's going to do something," Susie said. "If we can't settle it, then we vote on it."

After scouring the neighborhood for the latest scoops, they lay out the paper with hand-printed articles and original cartoons. Parents cooperate by using office copying machines as "presses."

The paper that hits the streets is a well-balanced package of hard news, informative feature articles — what to do in case of a tornado — sports, puzzles and comics.

A child's "clubhouse-fort" in a vacant lot recently burned and the staff of the Kids Newspaper was on the scene to interview the owner and firemen. The clubhouse fire story really made the reader smell the smoke.

THE SAME EDITION ran a piece on the dedication of the Arlington Heights "Nikey Base" as a park site. And the "Lucky People" column featured items that were more enticing than informative.

While most of the items focus on youngsters who find money in unlikely places, who could question the news value of Poul Freitag's finding two dogs in two days or Brian Rankin's luck "when a basketball hoop saved his life from falling off his garage"?

The staff said they would like to report on the happenings of the village council or conduct an interview with Village Pres. James T. Ryan for their next edition.

The future is bright for the budding scribes. They have already learned an important rule:

"We don't like boring stories," they said in unison.

Today

Oct. 2 park referendum topic of special meet

A special meeting of the Arlington Heights Park District Board of Commissioners will be held today to determine what will be sought in a park improvement and development referendum Oct. 2.

The meeting, open to the public, will be at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge Ave.

Park officials have prepared a tentative list of improvements calling for the development of six sites for neighborhood parks, installation of tennis courts at existing parks, lighting of softball diamonds and tennis courts in addition to other improvements. The total package carries a price tag of about $1.3 million.

COMMISSIONERS HAVE scheduled the special meeting to get citizen reaction and determine what "packaging" would stand the best chance of voter approval.

The improvement and development package will be the second part of a two-part general obligation bond referendum. The first part will ask for $1.5 million to develop an 18-hole golf course on the site of the former Nike Base, Central and Wilke roads.

The two parts will be separate questions on the ballot.

Officials said the park site development and improvements cannot be made without approval of the bonds. They said the district's financial status, while sound, does not have enough money from present tax and fee revenues.

Although the officials have said the improvements are needed, they do not carry the same urgency the golf course does. Preliminary financial projections indicate the course will be showing a profit within four years and officials hope it will be able to generate funds for other park programs soon after that.

Wayne A. Benjamin, financial consultant hired for the referendum, estimated the passage of both referendum questions would add $10 to $20 to the tax bill of the average Arlington Heights homeowner. He said the owner of a $50,000 house would pay an estimated additional $11.25 a year to meet the bond obligations.

Hearing today on road budget

A public hearing on the Wheeling Township Highway Department's revised budget is set for 7:30 p.m. today at the Wheeling Township Hall, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights.

The highway department's $645,263 budget was adjusted to $480,000 after the City of Prospect Heights was incorporated in May. The $165,000 decrease in the revised budget is a 26 per cent savings.

Township Highway Comr. Arthur Olsen said much of the money saved from the fiscal 1976 budget came from road district salaries, gas and oil, road oil, and road supplies originally planned for use in Prospect Heights.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS, Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Mount Prospect and a portion of Des Plaines will account for half of the $480,000 if it is approved by the Wheeling Township Board of Auditors. Olsen said the villages benefit from township road work because they pay township road taxes.

Prospect Heights formerly comprised 60 per cent of the roads maintained by the township road and bridge district in unincorporated areas.

Tully's assessment plan attacked

Dist. 21 raps cut in property tax

The Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 Board of Education has opposed a plan by Cook County Assessor Thomas Tully to lower assessment rates on single-family homes.

The board has passed a resolution objecting to Tully's plan because it might hurt the district's financial situation by failing to provide additional tax revenue from an increase in assessed valuation.

Tully Aug. 16 proposed to the Cook County Board that the assessment rate for single-family homes be lowered from the current level of 22 per cent of market value to 16 per cent.

TULLY SAID homeowners in the Northwest suburbs face 30 to 40 per cent increases in their property assessments because of rising home market values. He said his plan will avoid huge increases in residents' tax bills.

Dist. 21 has joined other county school districts which have formed a group in opposition to Tully's plan. The group, under the direction of the Illinois Assn. of School Boards, has asked the districts involved to pass resolutions against the plan.

The school committee includes two representatives from each of the county's four quadrants and four members-at-large. Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill is representing the Northwest suburbs as a member-at-large.

Gill said the committee is asking districts to oppose Tully's plan until "our questions are answered. If they're not answered, we should move through in opposition."

SCHOOL OFFICIALS charge that Tully's program will nullify increases in value that have occurred in single-family homes since the last assessment four years ago.

The officials also said the plan "attempts to freeze the tax base while the cost of governmental services continues to increase."

"The tendency that's appearing right now is the strange belief that you can keep on increasing the costs of governmental units while lowering taxes," Gill said. "It's suicidal to keep moving this way."

The Cook County Board will begin hearings on Tully's proposal Sept. 9 and school officials are preparing to testify against the plan.

Dist. 23 strike threat squashed; Dist. 59 accord

Bates, union negotiator.

The union's proposal would increase the base pay by 8 per cent, from $8,950 to $9,700. The top pay in the district would be $23,668. Teachers also would receive between 4 and 5 per cent salary increases for an additional year's experience.

Bates said the salary package will cost the district an additional $108,000 for teachers' salaries. Last year the teachers' salary package cost an additional $90,000 but was distributed according to merit evaluations.

The board has put $42,000 on the bargaining table this year for teachers' salaries, but refuses to negotiate switching to a salary schedule, Bates said.

"The Prospect Heights Education Assn. will take a strong stand on this issue," he said.

BATES SAID progress of contract talks will be discussed with the teachers to determine what action should be taken if a settlement is not reached by Sept. 16.

He said only one item of 32 demands presented by the teachers has been settled.

Teachers from the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization, an areawide special education cooperative, also ratified a 1976-77 contract at the meeting Monday.

Jean Shartow, union negotiator, said the contract calls for an 8.8 per cent increase in salary, bringing base pay to $9,800. This is the first year NSSEO teachers have negotiated a contract with the board.

3 seek Helvie's vacant Dist. 59 board seat

Two former school board members and one newcomer have applied for the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 board position left vacant because of the resignation of Lynne Helvie.

Residents who have applied for the position are: Gerald Smiley, 1156 Cheltenham Rd., Elk Grove Village; Erwin Poklacki, 1223 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights; and Sharon Chavoen, 641C Burgandy Ct., Elk Grove Village.

Smiley served on the board from 1972-75 but resigned midway through a one-year term in July 1975.

Smiley served as board president for the 1974-75 school year.

Poklacki served on the board from 1971-73 and was appointed to the board last summer to fill Smiley's position. Poklacki ran unsuccessfully for a three-year term in April 1976.

MRS. CHAVOEN said she had decided to run for the board in the April 1977 election and "thought I'd let them know I was interested now."

She has served as the president of the Marshall School PTC in Elk Grove Village and has been attending board meetings for about two years.

Mrs. Helvie resigned from the board to become eligible for a teaching position in the district. She had served 1½ years of a 3-year term on the board.

The board plans to extend the Sept. 1 deadline for applications for the board vacancy to encourage more residents to apply, said Judith Zanca, board president.

Wheeling suit serves as warning

The Village of Wheeling has filed a $1 million damage suit against the companies and individuals involved in a 1974 zoning shakedown scandal, a move that may discourage other developers and officials from wrongdoing in the future.

The village last week filed the suit against five former officials and five firms involved in the bribe scandal, asking for a return of the bribe money paid to officials and $1 million in damages.

The village contends the zoning scandal cost large sums of money in legal fees and in correcting zoning problems created by the payoffs and has damaged irreparably the reputation of the village and its residents.

The suit is the first of its kind filed since a verdict against former County Clerk Edward Barrett ordered him to pay more than $180,000, which he received in an extortion scheme.

The Circuit Court ruling against Barrett was overturned by the Illinois Appellate Court but is being appealed to the Supreme Court.

Whether or not the Wheeling suit succeeds, it serves as a warning to officials and developers that bribery and extortion will not be tolerated in the Village of Wheeling.

It is unfortunate that the village and its taxpayers have been saddled with the expense involved in correcting zoning conditions that resulted from the illegalities of officials, business firms and developers. A number of lawsuits have resulted from the shakedowns and again it is the village and its taxpayers paying the bills.

It is interesting that the suit names not only those who asked for bribes but those who chose to break the law by paying them. The lawsuit is not only a legal brief but a position statement by the village that parties on both sides of a shakedown scheme are at fault.

The reputation of Wheeling has suffered with the repeated scandals, and the village board has made a strenuous effort to "clean up" the town. We see the lawsuit as a positive move to set the record straight.

Bayh has correct idea on solving over reaction

U.S. Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., expressed our sentiments succinctly.

Bayh characterized the federal health, education and welfare department rulings against traditional all-male or all-female school social activities as "the most idiotic I have ever heard of."

Apparently his Senate colleagues agreed when they voted 88-0 to overturn the HEW guidelines. The measure now goes to the House for consideration.

This kind of overlegislation is a symptom of bureaucratic nonsense, when a branch of the government becomes so involved in attempting to right a wrong that it loses sight of common sense in dealing with the problem. Indeed, the sex discrimination problem is a serious one in need of serious attention, but not overreaction.

During the Senate debate last week, Paul Fannin, R-Arizona, offered an amendment exempting several youth organizations, including the American Legion youth organizations and Boys State, from the HEW ruling. We believe a competing version offered by Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., simply exempting father-son and mother-daughter activities without mentioning specific organizations would have been more sensible.

When the House deals with this portion of the bill, it should keep in mind what Bayh also said during debate in the Senate. "If we continue on this route, there is a list of organizations we could include as long as my arm."

He's correct there, too.

Rezoning of 25 acres of open space still draws criticism

As a property owner and taxpayer in the city of Des Plaines for over 20 years, I along with many, many others in our neighborhood have been protesting for the past 17 months against the rezoning of a parcel of land at 850 E. Oakton St., consisting of some 25 acres.

The latest proposed plan will surely congest an area of about 18 acres with 246 units as compared with approximately 90 single-family homes. The remaining seven acres along Oakton Street will be zoned for a nursing home and office buildings three and four stories high.

This land is zoned strictly residential. We don't need more office buildings as there are many vacant offices throughout the area. We don't need another nursing home in this area, as we are becoming surrounded by nursing homes. Some are finished and/or in the finishing stages. Those that are finished are having problems staffing them.

As for condominiums, all one has to do is to look around and see a lot of unsold units because people would still prefer single family homes.

We ask the members of the zoning boards and the city council to have consideration for the property owners. Help us to fight against this type of development. We don't want to see Des Plaines, "The City of Desinty," become a city destined for exploitation, degradation and depreciation.

Worthy of note

We would like to thank a local Arlington Heights merchant very much for helping us the other day, when our car key broke in two.

We were at Arlington Park and left around 3 p.m. When we arrived at our car, we found that the key had broken in two and there was no spare. To complicate everything, none of our friends and relatives were at home. We walked to a hardware store, an auto supply shop and a gas station, yet no one was able to help us. Then a gentleman told us about a Ben Franklin store that made keys. We walked there and that seemed to be our only hope.

We had only hoped that the person would have made a duplicate key, yet through his kindness and generosity, he not only made a perfect duplicate key, but he was gracious enough to drive us back to our car to insure that the key would work.

We offered the person money, which he would not take, so we can only offer words of gratitude and thanks. We are very thankful that there are still people like him in this world who are willing to lend a helping hand.

Parents and children at fault

After reading the responses to Mayor Teichert's letter regarding the vandalism law, it seems to me that many people are missing the point. I understood that Mayor Teichert feels that children should be made responsible for their own actions, not just the parents. And what's wrong with that? With freedom goes responsibility. If the vandals were made to put time into a work program to compensate for damages, etc., they might become more responsible and there would not be a next time.

Also, if 17-year-olds can't be held responsible, when can they? Is this a college class, "Responsibility?"

Also, some parents may not care as long as they pay the fine, end of story. Make the kids responsible, too, not just the parents.

Jogging it

A look at the true feelings and reasons of those who take the trip around the block for fun and profit

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Someone has called my attention to a new metaphysical discipline called "transcendental Running."

In essence, TR takes a simple form of exercise and elevates it into a mystic experience complete with such esoteric manifestations as chanting and "tidal breathing."

TR's Bible is a book called "Beyond Jogging: The Innerspaces of Running." And the spinoffs include a poem with this immortal line:

"Running because everything just wants to, just exists as, just is and I want to part into that infinity." Yes.

Being a jogger of sorts myself, I can understand how TR came about. It obviously was born of the desperate need for some way to occupy the mind while jogging.

Jogging itself requires no thought whatever. Unless the jogger finds something for his brain to do, boredom will exhaust him long before his legs give out.

I've never tried chanting but I can recommend a non-transcendental method of overcoming exercise ennui. What I do is mentally telecast my jogging sallies.

"Good morning. This is Jim McKay at the International Jogging Course in Fairfax County, Va., where in a moment we will see the start of the feature event, the two-mile neighborhood jog. Here to set the stage for you is our guest commentator and physical fitness expert, Truman Capote."

"Thanks, Jim. We have a rather unusual situation in this event. Only one jogger has qualified for the finals. He is the current world record holder, Speedy West of the USA."

"Why is there only one finalist, Truman?"

"Well, Jim, in this event the joggers are judged not on how far or how fast they go, but on form. A jogger's form must be right for the distance he jogs at a given speed. Otherwise, he is disqualified. Only Speedy West of the USA has been able to achieve that precise blend of athletic skills in this event."

"If there is only one finalist, what's the point of going ahead with the event?"

"What we have at stake here, Jim, is an attempt by Speedy West to tie his own world record for the third time this week. No other jogger has ever received a perfect score for the two-mile neighborhood jog. Speedy West did it on Monday and Tuesday and is going to take another crack at it today."

"That's quite a feat, Truman, particularly for a man his age. Could you explain a bit about the course?"

"Jim, a neighborhood jogger must surmount two types of obstacles. One is the dogs that run out and sniff at his heels, nearly tripping him. The other is the kids who yell derisive comments as he glides by, trying to destroy his composure."

"Fine, Truman. And we'll be back with the start of this exciting event in just . . ."

Usually by the time the first commercial is over, I'm back home.

"Instead of being an executive, wouldn't it be more fun being a policeman?"

Let the used car buyer beware...

Tips by dealers cut chances of buying a lemon

by LEA TONKIN

"Dear consumer: If anything goes wrong with this car after you drive it away, it's your problem."

A sticker reading something like this will be stuck on all used cars sold "as is" if the Federal Trade Commission has its way. The FTC plans to announce hearings on its proposed trade rule requiring a disclosure statement by used motor vehicle dealers.

"Its supposed to give a better break to consumers," said Jerome Lamet, assistant regional manager at the FTC office in Chicago. Complaints received by the agency indicate consumers are sometimes confused about warranties offered on used cars.

Three local dealers discount the value of the disclosure rule, however.

THE PROPOSED industry standard would put an end to the warranty confusion. It would not serve as a cure-all for all used car complaints, Lamet said. "If a car is sold without a warranty, then the rule requires that there be a clear statement to that effect," he said.

"Deception can occur when a salesman makes verbal statements on a guarantee. He'll say, 'Don't worry about it — it's warrantied,' " Lamet said. "But the sticker will tell the truth. It's a form of self-help for the consumer."

If the FTC trade rule is adopted following public hearings, the following information would be listed on a sticker attached to used cars sold by dealers:

- The name, address and chief executive officer of the dealership.
- The make, model and year of manufacture of the vehicle.
- The identity of any commercial or governmental organization which used or owned the vehicle, and the type of use.
- A description of any work on the car done by the dealer, if the costs totaled $100 or more.
- A description of the extent of any warranty or service contract.
- If the dealer disclaims all warranties, a statement that the vehicle is sold "as is" and a description of the dealer's lack of warranty obligation.

THE FTC'S new regulation would bar oral or written statements contradicting the required disclosure statement.

"We're dealing with a concept — does the consumer have the right to receive basic information about what he's buying?" Lamet said. He believes legitimate used car dealers will benefit from the proposed industry standard.

Disclosure of the used vehicle's condition and the extent to which a dealer will stand behind a warranty would be a boon to the consumer, said Mary Ellen Donaghy, assistant to Illinois consumer advocate Celia Maloney.

"People assume there is a guarantee. A lot of times they don't ask," she said. "Last year, we had 150 complaints on used car sales."

DISCLOSURE LEGISLATION proposed in the Illinois General Assembly during the last session was killed, Ms. Donaghy said.

The used car sales disclosure statement, which would have been required under the measure, included the type of previous use, extent of known damage, odometer reading, asking price, the make, year or manufacture, engine model, type of transmission and a warranty rating.

The ratings ranged from A, or an unconditional guarantee for 90 days or 3,000 miles, to the E rating with no guarantee.

John Parello, owner of the Parco Auto Mart, Ltd., Wheeling is among the area used car dealers who question the value of a disclosure statement. Parello said all the used cars he sells are "as is" with no warranty.

PARELLO SAID used car buyers should test drive the automobile before they sign on the dotted line. "There's no way to compare an automobile by sight," he said.

"Listen for everything — rattles, loose shock absorbers, muffler systems, front end, knots in the tires," the dealer said. "You'll know if you're driving a worn-out car."

A reputable dealer should not mind a customer's decision to have the car checked by a local mechanic, he said.

Parello said he has "mixed feelings" about the FTC's proposed information sticker. A buyer "turned sour" could falsely state that there were many defects on a car traded to the dealer, he said.

THE STICKER information requested by the FTC already is available to Hertz customers, said Don Noyes, director of public affairs for the Hertz Corp. in New York. The company's auto rental division maintains a Hertz Car Sales outlet at 2750 E. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village.

"We not too long ago signed a consent decree with the FTC," Noyes said. "We agreed to make known to our customers the maintenance records of cars that came out of our rent-a-car fleet. The records were always available but we didn't advertise it."

Noyes said Hertz discloses terms of its used car warranty for 12,000 miles or 12 months, whichever comes first.

Fred Richardson, Hertz zone manager in Chicago, said the public can contact the Elk Grove office or the Chicago office at 520 N. Wabash to obtain the free booklet, "How to Evaluate a Used Car."

There is more to used car evaluation than kicking the tires, said Edward Przylucki, assistant manager in the automotive department at the Better Business Bureau of Metroplitan Chicago office in Chicago. The written warranty is a key to satisfaction after a purchase, he said.

More than 2,000 complaints about new and used car sales practices were received by Przylucki's office during 1975. Misrepresentation on the condition of the car was the most common gripe among used car buyers.

The BBB resolves 85 per cent of the complaints through mediation. Consumers may call the agency offices to check unsatisfied claims against a dealer. The telephone number for weekday calls from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. is 346-3868.

Personal tax cuts OKd through '77

House and Senate negotiators, working to complete a major tax revision bill, agreed Monday to extend all current individual income tax cuts at least through 1977. The action, which is certain to be approved by Congress before it adjourns for the year, would prevent increases in tax withholding rates which would average $3 to $6 per week for most wage earners. Tax withholding rates were frozen earlier pending action on a permanent tax bill. That freeze expires Wednesday, but Congress is expected to continue the freeze until the tax revision bill which includes the cuts becomes law. The two major features were:

- The standard deduction would remain at 16 per cent of income, with a minimum deduction of $1,600 for single returns and $1,900 for joint returns, and a maximum of $2,300 for single returns and $2,600 for joint returns. This cut would be made permanent.
- A tax credit of $35 for a taxpayer and each dependent, or 2 per cent of the first $9,000 of taxable income, whichever is greater. This would be effective through 1977.

Ford pay offer due

The Ford Motor Co. said Monday it will present the United Auto Workers with its first money offer Tuesday, giving negotiators just 14 days to work out contract compromises and prevent a strike by the firm's 170,000 workers. A Ford spokesman said the offer will deal mainly with the economics of a new contract at the No. 2 auto maker, the union's "target" firm this year.

Foreign wine inspection

The government proposed Monday to send inspectors to foreign vineyards to make sure American wine drinkers get what the labels promise. The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms said the American consumer is entitled to expect the same quality of imports as that of wine produced in this country so far as protection from possibly harmful ingredients is concerned.

Business 'expo' set

More than 200 Northwest suburban companies will sponsor a regional business and industry exposition Oct. 14-15 at the Holiday Inn O'Hare-Kennedy in Rosemont. The companies belong to the Northwest Suburban Manufacturers Assn. Association officials expect more than 10,000 visitors at the show.

Price hike off: U.S. Steel

United States Steel Corp. and two other major producers said Monday they had withdrawn a previously announced 4.5 per cent price increase. The announcement apparently blocked a move by three smaller companies to retain the boosts as scheduled Oct. 1. Going along with U.S. Steel, the industry trend-setter, were No. 2 Bethlehem Steel Corp., Bethlehem, Pa., and Inland Steel Co. of Chicago, the sixth largest producer. On Friday, Armco Steel Co., Middletown, Ohio, set the stage for the withdrawals by announcing a three month delay in its previously announced price increases.

Economy in 'pause'

President Ford, back in the White House after a 10-day Colorado vacation, called his Cabinet together Monday to hear his chief economic adviser report the nation's economy is now in a "pause" period but improving. "Slowdowns always occur in an economic recovery. The pattern is spurt, pause, spurt, pause. We are in one of those pause periods," said Chairman Alan Greenspan of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Abel raps union 'takeover'

President I. W. Abel of the United Steelworkers charged Monday in a bitterly worded speech that dissidents and outsiders are telling "Hitler-type lies" in an effort to take over the union. Abel made his speech at the start of the union's 18th biennial convention in Las Vegas, where dissidents led by district director Ed Sadlowski have threatened to wage a bitter fight against many of Abel's programs.

Bargain hunters push stocks up in slow trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Selected blue-chip bargain hunting drove prices higher Monday in the second slowest trading session of the year on the New York Stock Exchange, as many investors appeared to be taking an extended Labor Day holiday.

The volume of 11,140,000 shares was the slowest since 10,300,820 shares were traded Jan. 2, the day after New Year's. Friday's turnover was a slow 12,120,000 shares.

In the limited bargain hunting, the Dow Jones industrial average, a 3.49-point winner Friday, managed to gain 4.99 points to 968.92. Despite Friday's gain, the blue-chip average lost 10.14 points last week.

THE NYSE common stock index gained 0.28 to 54.51 and the average price of a common share increased by 18 cents. Advances topped declines, 859 to 488, among the 1,814 issues crossing the tape. The 467 unchanged issues reflected investor uncertainty.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, gained 0.59 to 102.07.

Earlier, U.S. Steel announced it was withdrawing an average 4½ per cent price increase for hot-rolled, cold-rolled and galvanized sheet and strip products. Most of the other steel companies followed U.S. Steel's lead. Armco made a similar move Friday, and this lessened some investors' fears that inflation would be rekindled soon.

Prices closed higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased by two cents. Volume totaled 1,320,000 shares, compared with 1,597,300 traded Friday.

Race track denizens face another long day

Long before the crowds file through the turnstiles, the day begins at Arlington Park Race Track.

The thin, filtered light of dawn casts the long shadows of the early morning workouts as horse and rider rehearse the unison necessary to produce a winning run.

There are shoes to be fitted, tacks adjusted, and the mounts hotwalked and bathed before the carnival-colored silks and trumpet call to the post quickens the anticipation of clubhouse patron and railbird alike.

To run the clockwise circle marked in furlongs and fractions of seconds, man and horse prepare in the morning quiet surrounded by the scent of leather, hay and their own exertion.

There are stop watches to time them, cameras to film them and now even machines to walk them. But it is still one man and one horse practicing, working and striving to be first.

American male lacks a sense of fashion says Italian designer

by LAURA SCHMALBACH

Skip Gangi thinks the leisure suit sums up the American male and his sense of fashion perfectly: "It takes no brains at all to say 'Give me my leisure suit'. . . anyone from a truck driver to a doctor can wear one," says the young Italian designer with a sneer.

But Gangi, of the Gangi Store for Men in Woodfield Mall, doesn't stop with that synthetic backbone of suburban fashion — he also takes pot shots at the Yank's obsession with synthetics, domination by women and lack of fashion creativity.

"Somehow, there must be more to the American man than football and Jay's potato chips, but right now it's hard to find," he declares, pulling a non-existent thread from his crisp beige suit.

Just who is this critic of the American male, and why is he saying such terrible things about him?

SKIP GANGI is a European designer who operated out of Zurich, Switzerland, for three years before he "got homesick" and came back to Chicago, where his father has owned a men's clothing business since 1939. His crisp, tapered suits have graced the sets of "Goldfinger," "Capone" and a yet-to-be-released film starring Ben Gazzara, an old family friend and recipient of several of Gangi's creations.

After starting out as a protege of Oleg Cassini in New York City, Gangi took off for Europe and branched out into free lance design. His homecoming back to the States was "just about impossible" after dealing with what Gangi terms the "confident, sophisticated" fashion sense of European men.

Gangi's suits, shirts and ties are all styled with a sexy Italian — or Frenchman or Englishman — in mind. The fit is often tapered, and the colors are subtle and complementary. Only natural fabrics like wool, linen and silk are used, which is in sharp contrast to the "plastic bag" look that Americans cultivate, he says.

"AMERICANS ARE just too synthetic-oriented," he says. "The notion that if it wrinkles it's no good is totally absurd — what's wrong with a few creases?"

It all comes down to an "I don't care" attitude on the part of American men, Gangi says. While his European counterpart discusses fashion over lunch, takes pride in his appearance and knows the difference between business and leisure wear, a typical American wears his business suit to parties and buys a new outfit only when he's dragged to a store by his wife or girlfriend, Gangi says.

And about those women: this fall's trend toward three-piece suits and masculine style for the ladies is no accident, Gangi says.

"Male designers are consciously making women look like men because they've stolen the show away from us when it comes to fashion," Gangi declares. "Especially in America, women are the ones who follow fashion. . . we're getting our vengeance."

BUT THINGS ARE looking up for the American man, Gangi hastens to add. As the work week shrinks, men have more time to browse through stores (without their henpecking mates), and there's a better awareness of designers like Pierre Cardin, Yves St. Laurent and Oleg Cassini. And it's not that Americans don't want to dress sharply — they just need to take a tip from their more sophisticated brothers across the Atlantic, Gangi points out.

That guidance may be provided by Gangi himself — he has been approached by a publisher to start a fashion magazine for the American male consumer (something which Gangi says is now non-existent), and he's seriously considering the offer.

Meanwhile, he jets back and forth to Europe as frequently as he can to keep abreast of the latest trends. This year, he reports, the well-dressed man will look as if he's returning from a resort, with plenty of earth and sky tones and trimmings in leather and suede. The "fruity look" of ruffles and hot pink shirts have had their day, much to Gangi's relief.

How does Gangi get his ideas for the young, trim, egotistical man he's aiming at?

"I just keep my eyes open and watch the people around me," he says — but adds with a wink, "not Americans, of course!"

DESIGNING FASHIONS for the American male is a difficult assignment, says Skip Gangi. Skip, right, and his brother Curtis of Gangi Store for Men are trying to transplant the European look to Woodfield Mall, but they've run into such snags as leisure suits and a lack of fashion creativity.

THE EUROPEAN influence in fashion is a major one, says designer Skip Gangi. The slim, trim, elegant profile of the European male is one that Americans would do well to imitate, he believes.

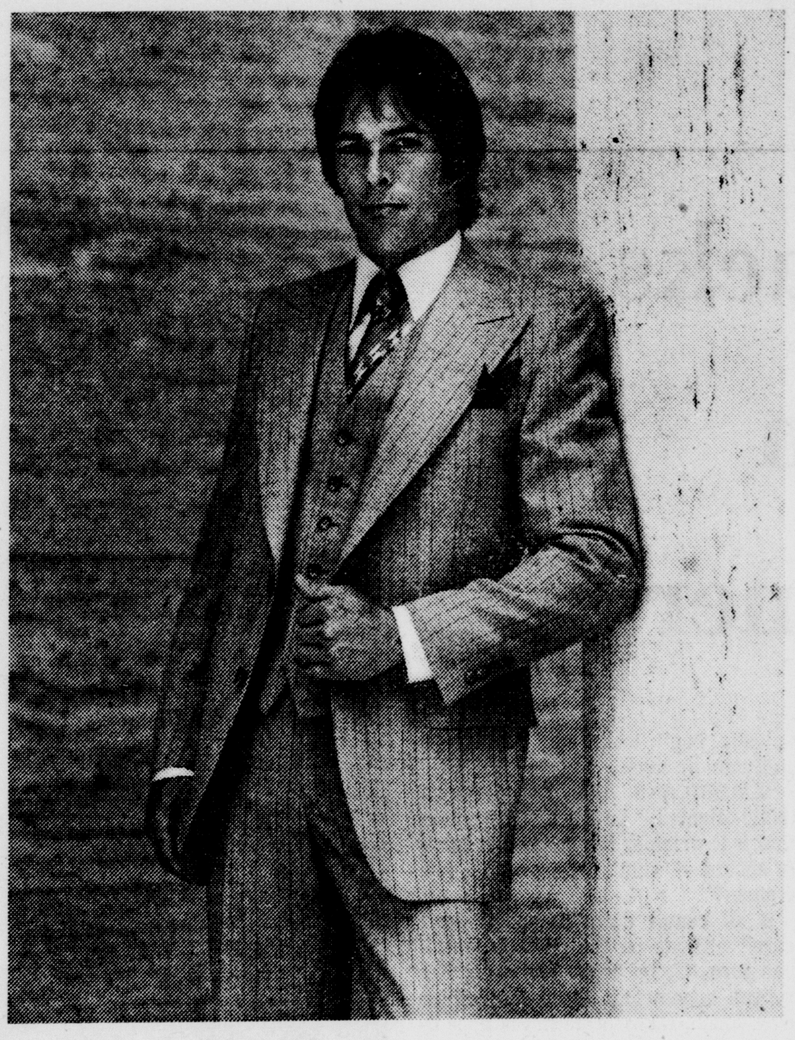
ELEGANT VELVET shows up in men's casual wear. All-cotton jacket and vest in this outfit from Austin Reed of Regent Street are in soft shades of steel blue, rust and tan. The all-wool trousers are tan.



WINDOW-PANE checks are big on the men's fashion scene this fall. This Johnny Carson suit is a polyester/wool blend in rust, gold and pale blue on a gray background. Trousers are flared.

Neat's the word in men's wear

One word sums up the men's fashion picture for fall, and that's "neat."

Men are going to look traditional again, but in an updated way, and everything, including hair styles, is neat, clean and classic.

Ties are a good indication of how things are going, and this autumn they are more traditional with knits back on the scene, colors subdued and the scenic and pictorial ties being down-played.

Shirts are dressier, perfect for the vested suit. Fabrics are less decorated, and along with the traditional oxford cloth, we'll be seeing twills and cottons in stripes, checks and muted prints. Colors will blend with the suit fabrics, coming in celery green, gray rust, brown and bright blue.

TAILORED CLOTHING ranges from the very dressy to the casual country look. Dressy fabrics will feature the smooth-finished weaves patterned with quiet stripes, checks, plaids or in solid tones. Country look fabrics will range from corduroys to beefy wools, linen looks and even velvets.

Pocket scarves are back in neat solid colors to blend with patterned neckwear or suiting and patterned to blend with the solids. Big news are the six-foot mufflers, some with fringe. You'll even see some tams and beanies to complement the knit.

Big sellers in the sportswear arena will be separates. Leisure blazer tops often are reversible and may be teamed with a vest.

Even the man wearing jeans will look neat. Jeans are an indigo or dark blue color. And those of corduroy come to market in earthy greens, browns and naturals.

BELTS LOOK neater, too, coming an inch to an inch and a half narrower except for those worn with jeans.

In sweaters it's the Shetland crew neck and the lamb's wool V-neck that will be conversation pieces. Colors go two ways — in clear reds, yellows, navy and browns, or in heather tones.

The classic look extends right down to the feet with some loafers and slip-ons sporting tassels and ornaments. Suedes are back. The hottest colors — brown, blue and black. Toes are slimmer. And boots, too are clean-looking.

With shirt manufacturers showing French-cuffed shirts, cuff links are in vogue again, and so are collar pins. Look for tie tacks and tie bars, too. In all men's jewelry, the big bulky look is gone.

AS FOR weathercoats, the trend depends upon the region. On the East Coast men will be buying them on the long side, some six inches below the knee. Elsewhere a shorter coat will prevail — all the way up to four inches above the knee.

In the hat line, fur felts come with brim turned down all the way around. There are fun hats in cashmere, mohair and velour. And the really fashionable man will choose an updated English bobby hat.

And underneath, he'll be wearing his hair with a natural wavy look instead of a tight curl. Length is just below the collar, and sideburns are shaved off. Even bearded and mustachioed men will be neater for fall/winter 1976.

Breakfast fashion show to feature Jack Winter line

A breakfast and fashion show will be held at Carson's Randhurst store, Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 9 a.m. on the upper level featuring fall fashions from Jack Winter.

Shoppers are invited to "start your day with a refreshing taste of melon, grapes and fresh strawberries as a parade of the latest fashions, including three-piece suits, double-breasted blazers and other coordinated Jack Winter fashions goes past your breakfast table."

Tickets for the breakfast and fashion show are $2.50 and can be purchased at the Customer Service counter or by calling 392-2000. Cut-off date for the reservations is Thursday, Sept. 9.

Wieboldt lesson on sewing plaids

Pointers on plaids will be given by Karen Roberts, home economist, at Wieboldt's Randhurst store tonight from 7 to 9 in the fashion fabrics department.

Plaids are one of the "in" fashions for fall and the complexities of working with these tricky fabric patterns will be explained in detail for both beginner and expert sewers. Ms. Roberts will discuss how and why the right patterns should be selected, demonstrate the correct way to lay out, cut and piece the plaid together to insure that every seam matches. She will also offer advice and answer questions from the audience.

A pamphlet on plaids will be given away to interested onlookers during the demonstration.

NEWS FOR BRUNETTES! The newest way to give a glow to brunette colored hair being done by the leading hair stylists in New York is to streak the hair with henna. It's easy. The effect, if not overdone, gives wonderful, bright, natural highlights to dark hair, much as blond streaking gives light hair. It's sure to become as big a trend as blond streaks — but easier. Lunch at Fields' see fall styles

Marshall Field's Woodfield store is offering a fashion treat for luncheon customers at 11:45 and 12:45 p.m. on the first four Thursdays in September. The shows will feature current fashion trends and explore a myriad of outlooks from the chic of the city to the sophisticated ease of the country.

Field's fashion summary includes the "big news" for cooler weather, the look of menswear from the classic tailored suit to accessories such as men's slouch hats, ascots, tieds and collar pins and the ethnic looks.

COLORS WILL cover a wide spectrum from soft grays, browns and camels to the accent tones in reds and oranges, and textures will be combinations of silks, cashmeres, mohairs, velvets, suedes and corduroys, according to the store's fashion advisers. Plaids in all areas from the classic kilt to the blanket wrap coat are among fall's fashion news.

THE nova cut

FOR FALL & WINTER...

The Short Nova Cut features exposed ears and a tapered neckline with some extra volume on either the front or back areas of the head. Short hair directs significant attention to individual facial lines and features, creating emphasis on the eyes for an open look at today's free thinking woman.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Coffee, not cream may harm stomach

More than once I've been assured by my black coffee drinking friends that my habit of putting cream or lightener in my coffee (no sugar) is much harder on the stomach than drinking it black. I'd like to know whether there is any truth in their claim — or is it just an "old wives' tale?" If one drinks creamed coffee with a meal, how would the stomach know whether the cream came in with the coffee or perhaps the cream pie?

Old wives' tale. The important thing is what goes into the stomach, not the combination. If a person had milk intolerance and used lots of light cream he might have indigestion. However, that would occur whether the light cream was used in the coffee or in any other food, as you point out.

You can tell your black coffee drinking friends that the real danger to the stomach is the coffee itself. Anyone who has acid indigestion or similar problems should not use much coffee in any form. For more information on coffee I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-1, Coffee, Tea, Cola, Cocoa. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Send your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Do you have any information on ganglion cysts? My husband had one removed from the top of his foot a year ago. We would be interested in anything you could tell us. Would it be wise for my husband to avoid strenuous use of his foot as in excessive walking?

We cannot ask the doctor who did the surgery as he was killed in a plane crash 10 days later. We live in an isolated area where doctors are few and far between. He did tell us it might possibly grow back but so far it seems okay.

Would the use of one of those vibrating water foot tubs do either harm or good for his foot?

Ganglions are more commonly located on the back of the hand or the wrist. They are simply a sac-like formation filled with fluid. The tendons have sheaths of tissue around them of material that looks a bit like the plastic wrap material you have in the kitchen. If you trap some water in a pocket of the plastic material it will be very much like the cyst.

No one knows why the sheaths develop such a cyst but they are not dangerous or harmful. Sometimes they may be mildly painful because of pressure on a nearby nerve.

Often a small cyst can be broken by striking it a sharp blow. When the cyst breaks the fluid runs out and it is usually cured. A common treatment is to strike it with a heavy book, often the Bible, hence the term the "Family Bible treatment" for cysts.

More complex or larger cysts may have to be removed surgically. Usually they will not recur. Of course, you have no guarantee that another fold of sheath-like tissues will not trap fluid and form a new cyst. If it is small it too can be broken.

There is no reason why your husband could not be as active as the rest of his health status permits. I don't think he need give any special attention to his foot now, but should consider it cured. If he should be unlucky enough to have a new cyst form it can easily be broken or if need be, removed. I don't think he needs any foot tubs or other special care.

New French cooking eliminates sauces

Dear Dorothy: I've been looking everywhere for a cookbook on the new French cooking that skips all the rich sauces. Some friends who have been to France this summer rave over the new style. Why isn't there anything in our papers about it? — Joyce Guerlain.

There are no written recipes because the chefs are still experimenting. I've yet to hear of a single book on the subject. As I get it, they've gone for fresh (very fresh) ingredients, quick steaming or broiling and few sauces. What sauces are being used apparently contain vegetable oil instead of butter. As I'm sure you know, French restaurants buy their food supplies at dawn and they work with what's available on the markets. As the new pattern settles in, we're sure to find books coming, good, bad and indifferent. Patience.

Dear Dorothy: In your discussion of plants that grow in shade, you missed possibly the best one — impatiens. We have them in a spot that never gets direct sun — only what filters through thick maple trees, yet both hanging baskets (in their second year) and pots are full of bloom all the time. They root easily in water and even bloom while rooting. Never miss your column — Ruth Carol Keller.

Dear Dorothy: For some time I've been curious about why a starch solution prevents permanent dirt stains on rough plaster walls and pillowcases. Surely you know. —Jo Howell.

It's really simple. The dirt stays on top of the starch and when either (the wall or the pillowcase) is washed, the dirt comes off with the starch. After a rough wall is washed, the liquid starch solution is brushed on again. It doesn't show on pillowcases.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Box 280, Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006)

There's a wedding in their future

Overland-Freres

The engagement of Maureen Overland to Jim Freres, son of Mrs. Grace Freres of Rolling Meadows, is announced by her father, John Overland of Arlington Heights. The couple plans a November wedding.

Both Maureen and Jim are graduates of Rolling Meadows High School. She now works for Unitronex Corp., Des Plaines, and he is with Peter J. Poulos & Sons in Downers Grove.

Caliendo-Sobieski

The engagement of their daughter, Cathy, to Greg Sobieski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sobieski, Elk Grove Village, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Caliendo of Bensenville. An October wedding is planned.

Cathy is a '76 graduate of Fenton High and Greg a '73 graduate of Elk Grove High. Greg is an automotive technician at Hank's "66" Service.

Rude-Nihei

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Rude of Wheeling announce the engagement of their daughter, Deborah Kay, to James Hironobu Nihei, son of Mrs. Chiyoka Nihei of Chicago. The couple will be married in October.

A '73 graduate of Wheeling High School, Deborah works at Wheeling Trust & Savings Bank. Her fiance graduated from Waller High in Chicago and is with Devco Sales, Evanston.

Kneisel-Stevens

Mrs. Robert Kneisel of Arlington Heights announces the engagement of her daughter, Sharon, to Jeffrey G. Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren L. Stevens, also of Arlington Heights. A January 1978 wedding is planned.

A Hersey High graduate in 1974, Sharon is attending Northeastern Illinois University. Jeff also graduated from Hersey, in 1972, and works for Oce Industries, Lincolnwood, as a draftsman.

Berger-Harris

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Berger of Skokie announce the engagement of their daughter, Terri Ann, to Gary Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie T. Harris of Mount Prospect. A March 1977 wedding is planned.

The young couple both work in Skokie, Terri as a secretary for Brunswick Corp. and Gary an accountant. She graduated from Niles North High in '74. Gary graduated in '68 from Prospect High and in '73 from the University of Illinois Circle Campus.

Meyer-Hogan

Western Illinois University graduates Nancy C. Meyer and David D. Hogan are engaged and planning a March 1977 wedding.

Their engagement is announced by Nancy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Meyer of Arlington Heights. David is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Richard D. Hogan of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Before attending Western Illinois Nancy graduated from Forest View High School.

Shoemaker-Schuster

Mr. and Mrs. William Shoemaker of Arlington Heights announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Ann, to James David Schuster, son of the Jerry Schusters of Highland Park.

They plan to marry next June after Carol, a Hersey High gaduate, receives a degree in economics from Northwestern University and her fiance, a graduate of the University of Micigan, receives his master's in management from Northwestern.

Davis-Walloch

Planning an October wedding are Cynthia J. Davis of Arlington Heights and Lewis Walloch of Prospect Heights. Their engagement is announced by Cynthia's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Davis.

Cynthia and Lewis are graduates of Wheeling High School. She now works for Moore Business Forms in Glenview and her fiance for M&F Builders Supply in Elk Grove Village. Lewis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Walloch.

Weddings

Wendy Martzahn -- Gerald O. Zick

A wedding Aug. 7 in St. Peter Lutheran Church, Greene, Iowa, united an area couple Wendy Martzahn and Gerald O. Zick. Greene is the home town of the bride.

Wendy now teaches music at Ivy Hill and Dryden Schools in Arlington Heights and her bridegroom is the business manager at Larry Faul Oldsmobile, Schaumburg.

They are making their home in Schaumburg after a wedding trip to Canada.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Galen E. Martzahn, chose her sister Debra of Iowa City, as maid of honor. The groom, whose parents, the Paul Zicks, live in Albion, Mich., had John Waisanen of Baroda, Mich., as best man. Guests were seated by John Israel, Ypsilanti, and James Hagemann of Albion, the groom's brothers-in-law.

Music for the evening service was provided by the bride's cousins, Danita Soldwisch at the organ and Kathy Nordmeyer on saxophone. The maid of honor was soloist.

Wendy is a graduate of the University of Iowa and her bridegroom of Albion College.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald O. Zick

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Higley

Linda Adams– Daniel Higley

A belated honeymoon visiting the groom's relatives in Japan early next year is planned by Linda Adams and Daniel Higley, who were married Aug. 7 in Church of the Cross United Presbyterian in Hoffman Estates.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Adams, Hoffman Estates, Linda, a '76 graduate of Hoffman Estates High, is employed in the media center of Hoffman Estates Dist. 54. Dan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Higley, Hanover Park, is a '72 graduate of Schaumburg High. He also studied a year at TriState College, Angola, Ind., and is now with North Central Airlines, Chicago.

A white organza gown with chapel train trimmed in lace and a lace-trimmed fingertip veil was Linda's choice in wedding attire. She carried white roses with stephanotis, baby's breath and daisy poms.

NORA STEVENS, Hoffman Estates, maid of honor, was in a blue dotted swiss gown trimmed in lace, and she carried blue carnations, daisy poms and baby's breath. Bridesmaid Vicki Lemke, Wheaton, was in green dotted swiss, and Lisa Roth, Hoffman Estates, in pink, and their bouquets included carnations to match their gowns.

Also in pink was Kristen Skenandore, 5, Hoffman Estates, flower girl. Ring bearer was the bride's 6-year-old brother, Jonathan.

Aron Lemke, Wheaton, was best man, and ushers were the bride's brother, Tom, and Tim Carpenter, Hoffman Estates.

A reception for 90 guests was held at the Maitre 'd Restaurant in Elk Grove Village.

Plant competition planned

All area gardeners are invited to enter both indoor and outdoor plant specimens in the horticulture division of "County Fairs Forever," a Sept. 18-19 standard flower show sponsored by Mount Prospect Garden Club.

The show culminates a year of programs to prepare members for the event; sessions through the summer months have readied them to compete for ribbons in floral arranging.

The show will be held in Mount Prospect Community Center from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday, and 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday. Adult admission is $1; children, 50 cents.

Gardeners wishing to enter the horticulture competition may contact May Anderson at 255-4547 for details. There is no entry charge.

Next on the agenda

WAC Veterans

The first fall meeting of Chicago Chapter of the Women's Army Corps Veterans Association is Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Sheraton Chicago Hotel, 505 N. Michigan Ave. There will be an installation of officers and reports on a Miami convention. Area WACs interested in attending may call Dorothy Janek of Arlington Heights at 394-5614 for further details. Dorothy was recently elected treasurer of the national chapter.

Meadows Jaycee-ettes

All former members of the Rolling Meadows Jaycee-ettes are invited to attend the organization's meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Joanne Abbate. The "Alumni Night" is planned to acquaint former members of the Jaycee-ettes with the new open membership policy of the club whereby young women who are not wives of Jaycees are eligible to join.

Former Jaycee-ettes may RSVP by calling 359-6089.

Happenings

Junior's state luau

The Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines will hold a Hawaiian luau at the home of Mrs. Larry Slonski of Des Plaines Thursday Sept. 9, from 7 to 9 p.m.

This will be the annual kickoff for the 1976-77 club year and President Mrs. Leonard Eskuchen and club officers will welcome new members, returning members and guests to the official beginning of the organization's 43rd year of community service.

Anyone interested in obtaining information about the club may call 299-8246 or 298-8910.

ERA honors two activists at reception

Liz Carpenter and Elly Peterson, co-chairs of ERAmerica, will be honored by the Illinois coalition to pass the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA Illinois) on Thursday from 4:30 to 6 p.m.

The wine and cheese reception will be held at the ERA Illinois office, 55 E. Monroe, Chicago. Admission is free, and the public is invited.

Mrs. Carpenter and Mrs. Peterson, political activists in the Democratic and Republican parties, are working to close the gap between the 34 states that have ratified the amendment and the total of 38 states needed to make the amendment a law.

Ask Andy

Hair is made up of tough protein

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Byron Dervis, 12, of Huntsville, Ala., for his question:

WHAT IS HAIR?

Most of us have haircuts regularly. Cutting hair doesn't hurt one bit, just as it doesn't hurt when we trim our fingernails. The reason we feel no pain is that the part cut away is dead. The live portion of the hair is below the surface of the skin in a special tube called a follicle.

The part of the hair that people see is called the shaft. It may be straight, wavy, curly or kinky. It can be red or yellow, brown or black, or any variety of hues of these colors. Regardless of its color or curl, it is made from the same material that forms the nails or hoofs of mammals, the feathers of birds and the scales of reptiles.

Each strand of hair consists mainly of two parts, the shaft and the root, and it grows from a small pocket in the skin called a follicle. At the base of the foolicle, where it broadens out to form a bulb, is a tiny projection called a papilla. And this is where hair growth begins.

Hair is made of a tough, fibrous protein material called keratin, plus other substances produced by the papilla. Each papilla has its own private blood supply from which it extracts the necessary materials to manufacture new hair cells. As new cells are formed, the old cells are pushed away from the nourishing papilla and die. As more new cells are formed, the older, dead cells are forced up through the follicle and form the rod-like structure called the shaft.

The life span of a hair may be a few months or several years. An eyelash lives for only three to five months. A hair from the scalp, however, can live from two to six years. Eventually each hair dies, is shed and is replaced by a new hair. Many hairs are shed during the warmer summer months, and you may lose from 50 to 100 hairs a day during these times.

The outside part of a hair shaft is called the cuticle. The cells that form the cuticle are flat and fit together like shingles on a roof. Deeper inside the hair, packed tightly together, are longer cigar-shaped cells. And in the center of each hair is a third layer of boxlike cells.

Under a microscope, a cross section of a hair shaft shows us that some hairs are round while others are oval, kidney-shaped or somewhat flattened. Round hairs produce a straight shaft without much curl or wave. Oval hairs grow at an uneven rate and produce a wavy hair shaft. The flattened or kidney-shaped hair is curly; and the flatter the hair shaft, the curlier the hair.

Andy sends a Student Globe to David Baba, 12, of Philadelphia, Pa., for his question:

WHAT IS THE CATGUT IN TENNIS RACKETS?

The catgut strings in your tennis racket are not made from a cat. In fact, the origin of the word "catgut" is unknown. This tough cord does, however, come from the intestines of certain animals, mostly sheep and hogs. The intestine casings are spun into string which is then dried and polished. Only a small percentage of the catgut made goes into tennis rackets. Mostly it is used for the strings in musical instruments, surgical sutures, in the mechanisms of clocks and typewriter and other devices.

In the early days of tennis, all rackets had strings of catgut. Since about 1930, though, more and more rackets are strung with nylon. Today only about 20 per cent contain catgut strings, which are more expensive and boost the cost of the racket by about $15 to $20.

Do you have a question to ASK ANDY? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to ASK ANDY in care of The Herald Post . Office Box 280, Arlington Heights, 60006. Entries open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

Miller's classic, 'Bridge' still packed with emotion

Mid-week review

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Tackling Arthur Miller can be either decidedly to one's advantage or end up as a big mistake. But the St. Nicholas Theatre Company already proved it could deftly handle Miller's intense classic, "A View From The Bridge," when it produced the play earlier this season at its own theater on the Near North Side of Chicago.

Last week the play reopened at the Forum Theatre in Summit and presently, in more adaptable, professional surroundings, it is even easier to see why the production was nominated for seven Joseph Jefferson Awards.

Even though the play takes place almost 20 years ago, the emotionally charged confusion and conflicts suffered by an Italian longshoreman, who after befriending his wife's alien immigrant cousins feels his complacency and position in his home threatened, can still be appreciated. It is superb drama extraordinarily well acted.

GERALD CASTILLO is cast as Eddie Carbone, a hardworking, well-meaning husband who can't stand to watch his grown niece, Catherine, whom he's raised like a daughter, look to another man for support. He can neither accept his unhealthy passions nor hide them.

When Catherine, played by Annabel Armour, falls in love with one of the aliens, Eddie violently reacts with no other thought but to protect what he thinks rightfully belongs to him.

Playing Eddie's wife, a most difficult role for it represents a barometer to measure the increasing tension in the house, is Carole Goldman. Ned Schmidtke is the sensitive, misjudged Rodolpho who falls in love with Catherine.

Norm Tobin is Rodolpho's older brother who is only interested in raising money in the United States to send home to his wife and children. He finally turns on Eddie as a ruined man possessed with revenge.

THE PRINCIPLE cast is completed by J. J. Johnson who acts as a narrator to tie all the intricacies of the story together.

A minimal, barren set has been designed by David Emmons to capture not only the poor Brooklyn neighborhood, but also to set the mood for the doom and tragedy that eventually strikes.

Steven Schachter is directing this renewed production being staged at the Forum in order to attract a larger, commercial audience. Yet, unfortunately, booking a larger theater does not always mean bigger houses. Other sterling productions at the Forum sometimes have gone unnoticed. I sincerely hope it isn't true this time.

Dystrophy benefit in need of aides

Volunteers are needed for the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Labor Day Telethon, broadcast live over WSNS-TV, Channel 44, from 8 p.m. Sunday to 5:30 p.m. Monday.

Men and women are being sought to answer telephones, record pledges and tabulate contributions to the marathon broadcast, which last year raised $1.8 million nationally for victims of muscular dystrophy.

Volunteers can select among four five-hour shifts at one of 11 pledge centers including: the Hyatt Regency Chicago hotel; Moose Lodge No. 682, Batavia; Caterpillar Tractor Co., Joliet; 1912 River Terrace, McHenry; Holiday Inn, U.S. 12 and 20, Gary; Moose Lodge 2755 W. Washington, Waukegan; American Legion Post No. 85, Kankakee; and Moose Lodge, Valparaiso, Ind.

Anyone interested in volunteering should call the Muscular Dystrophy Assn. at 427-0551.

Good play helps contract

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

South ruffed the second diamond and went into communion with nature. He knew he had overbid a trifle and the slam was not a good one. There was a simple way to play the hand. Cash the king of hearts and hope for a 2-2 trump break.

South decided that trumps just weren't going to behave that nicely. Then he worked out a complicated way to go after the slam. He cashed dummy's king-jack of clubs and was lad to see he was right about clubs not breaking. Then he ruffed a diamond and ran off the rest of his trumps.

The last trump lead squeezed West. He had to throw away a heart to keep the high diamond. The last diamond was thrown from dummy then and four heart tricks gave South his slam.

"Horseshoes!" sputtered West. "And to think I could have beaten you with a spade shift."

"No, you would not have," replied South. "I would cash my king of hearts, lead a trump to dummy and start the hearts. East would ruff the fourth lead. I would overruff, go to dummy with the last trump and cash that fifth heart for my contract."

'Super kids' ready for national meet

Arlington brings 48-9 mark to New Hampshire

by ART MUGALIAN

Sometimes to hear Lloyd Meyer talk, you'd think his Arlington Heights baseball team had won a berth in a spelling bee or a pie-baking contest instead of the American Legion National Baseball Tournament in Manchester, N.H.

"This is just a nice, good bunch of clean-cut American boys," said Meyer, chuckling a bit at the patriotic tone of his statement. "A lot of them are good students who'll do well in college. They'll be fine men when they grow up."

Meyer has been saying all along that this 1976 Arlington Heights team is his favorite, despite the fact that others have boasted more talent or shown more flair.

But the 1976 team is Great Lakes regional champion, heading now to a first-round national tourney meeting Thursday with the Eastern winner. All games will be broadcast on WWMM-FM (92.7).

"It's especially gratifying to me to take this particular club to the nationals," said the coach. "They're such super kids."

Kevin McBride

Super kids, yes. But all-time baseball immortals? The jury is still out on that one. If Meyer's team should go on to win the national title, nobody would be more surprised than Meyer himself. At least from the standpoint of original expectations.

"We've come so far with so little," said Meyer. "I was talking to some of the kids and we figured out that our three starting pitchers won a total of seven games between them in high school last season."

Since the Legion season started, though, Bob Huber has posted a 10-3 record, Dennis Drolet is 9-3, and Kevin McBride — who won just one game in his prep career — is 11-0.

The amazing thing is that Arlington Heights, now 48-9 for the season, has accomplished it all — county, state and regional titles — without their two pitching aces, John Mertins and John Igrasek.

Mertins has a sore arm and Igrasek left the team two months ago.

Arlington could have wrapped up the title Sunday afternoon, but instead their 12-game winning streak in tourney play was broken when Columbus, Ohio edged them 4-3. Columbus pushed across an unearned run in the eighth and righthander Bob Immel held Arlington to four hits in eight innings.

So the loss forced Arlington to play Columbus for all the marbles Sunday night.

"I wasn't real confident after the loss," said Meyer. "I thought they might start Immel again and he was still throwing hard. Columbus was really fired up too — they had come a long way. I thought maybe they were fated to win.

"But once the game started, once McBride threw the first pitch I knew we'd win it," Meyer added.

McBride was pitching with only two days' rest, but Meyer felt that his new-found star would be up to the task.

"That's the first time I've ever pitched Kevin with two days' rest," Meyer admitted. "But I was sure he'd come through with a big game. McBride is all heart."

As it turned out, Columbus started Bob Harrington, who ran into control trouble in the second inning when Arlington Heights built a 5-0 lead. Immel was summoned in relief, but by then it was too late and Arlington went on to an easy 13-2 victory.

Meyer defended his decision to let McBride go the distance.

"I probably should have got (Doug) Harth in there for a few innings to give him a chance to pitch in tourney play, but I figured as long as McBride was going good I wasn't going to take him out."

The Arlington coach also took some razzing from the opposition for stealing bases late in the game with an eight-run lead.

"All I could think of was that we came back from a 7-0 deficit in the state tournament and anything can happen," said Meyer. "This isn't a regular-season game where you can take people out of the lineup and experiment. No lead is big enough."

Arlington Heights took advantage of a tired Columbus team, which was playing its seventh game in three days. Columbus had fought back from the losers' bracket after Arlington beat them Thursday night, 3-1.

"It was a heck of a week for all of us," said Meyer, who is faced with the job of getting his team, sponsored by Bill Cook Buick, ready for one more tournament.

Eleven years ago, Meyer took a team to the national tournament, finishing fifth on that occasion.

WELCOME HOME CHAMPS. A hero's welcome was in store for Arlington Heights American Legion baseball coach Lloyd Meyer when he and his team returned with a regional championship Sunday. Scott Meyer, 11, checks a banner while the rest of Meyer's children look on. The Arlington Heights team now travels to New Hampshire for national finals which begin Thursday.

John D.

15-letter man says A-A teams are phony

Loren Tate

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — He openly disdains practice but thrives on the viciousness of the games.

He hasn't read the most prestigious pre-season magazine, Street and Smith's 36th Football Yearbook, which named him one of 17 All-America candidates at defensive tackle, because he thinks A-A teams are phony . . . still he concedes it's "nice" to receive recognition.

He's nervous and tense before kickoff but curiously calm and "together" when the trench warfare begins.

He is the 15-letter man, John DiFeliciantonio, Illinois' 240-pound senior who flashes the quickness and flair to play his position better than any Illini since 1965 fullback Jim Grabowski who now is a Palatine resident.

The Illini have boasted no bona fide All-American since Grabo and only one, according to the press guide, who "ranked high" nationally — Tab Bennett in 1972.

DiFeliciantonio has the skills to end that drought, even if he is bucking giant odds. Quiet and introspective, the son of a Philadelphia tailor, John D. forces himself through the mid-week drills and then erupts on Saturdays with a catlike quality. Though sidelined on occasion the last two years, he has 22 behind-the-line tackles to lead the Big Ten in that department.

John D. demonstrated in the first scrimmage he still possesses that indefinable skill. On one of halfback Tracy Campbell's first runs, John D. "welcomed him back" from knee surgery with a crashing tackle four yards behind the line. Neither Campbell nor a bewildered blocker knew what happened.

John D was "up" for that initial scrimmage. But he generally regards practice as drudgery.

"I just don't like it. But I know what's needed to win, and I believe I go as hard as anyone," he claims.

"What you do out here is up to each individual. You have to motivate yourself and set your own pace. What I do, I guess, works for me. What I do, though, might make someone else a poor player."

John D has analyzed what it takes to gain national recognition. He says:

"I don't know if being selected is really indicative of how much talent you have. If you get a good rolling start when you're young, and then have two average years with a good team, something might come out of it.

"The top teams like Ohio State, Michigan, Penn State and the others have outstanding players who are in the spotlight. What can you do? There are only 22 places. There really isn't room for all the good players. It's kind of silly to even try to pick it. All-conference selections probably provide a better picture."

DiFeliciantonio's point was borne out again by Family Weekly's sixth A-A team. Chosen by a large staff of sports editors, including seven from Illinois, the front five on defense featured Ohio State's Nick Buonamici, Aaron Brown and Bob Brudzinski.

"It doesn't mean that much as far as the pros are concerned," he continues. "They're not looking at your honors when the draft comes. Look how many guys are drafted from small schools and go on to be outstanding pros."

John D., who measures a fraction under 6-2 according to Illini records and just under 6-1 according to the pro scouts, isn't overly optimistic about his NFL future because he doesn't come up to the standard for his position. There is talk he might be drafted as a defensive end or linebacker.

"I don't know," he says. "I'll take whatever comes. I'm just planning to play this season and try to win as many games as possible. I'd like to see us win eight or nine and go to a bowl, even if that means a couple extra weeks of work (practice)."

The dark-complexioned physical education major admits to intense nervousness prior to kickoff but settles quickly after the first contact.

"There's just one thing in my mind," he states, "and that is to make the play . . . get the ball carrier, and keep them from scoring. I don't have any violent thoughts toward my opponent like, 'I'm gonna kill this guy.' I just want to get the ball.

"I have a lot of questions beforehand, like what if this happens or that happens, or how good is this guy across the line. When the game starts, you get those questions answered and you get involved in playing the game."

The likelihood that coach Bob Blackman will field his best defensive unit in six Illini seasons should help John D. receive at least a fair amount of recognition. Barrel-chested linebackers Scott Studwell and John Sullivan should rank with the nation's best, and tri-captain Dean March is back at end after sitting out the 5-6 campaign of 1975.

"It gives me a good feeling to look around me and see those familiar faces," says the amiable Italian. "We were inexperienced at the ends last year and we had some problems. It takes a team effort of 11 players to have success, and that's what we have now."

Tri-City League takes Eastern Division crown

Tri-City Women's Golf League, playing out of Mount Prospect Country Club, won the Eastern Division of the 1976 Intersuburban League Championship at Hilldale Golf Club last weekend.

The Intersuburban League is comprised of 24 teams representing golf clubs in the northern, southern, eastern and western suburbs outside the Chicago area.

Tri-City's Ann Caldini, Madge Donchess, Bonnie Fox, Sue Lesh, Marge Lytle, Ginger Roelofson, Jackie Rogosch, Fern Rowe, Nancy Tank and Arlene Wohlford won the Western Division and placed second in the Intersuburban League title playoffs.

Other teams competing at the Hoffman Estates course were division champions from Tally Ho, Big Run and McHenry.

McHenry was the winner of the low net best ball tournament with a total of 207. Mount Prospect placed second with 209 followed by Big Run with 214 and Tally Ho with 224.

Playing for Mount Prospect in the tournament were Sue Lesh, Bonnie Fox, Madge Donchess, Fern Rowe, Ginger Roelofson and Jackie Rogosch.

Des Plaines holds tennis tourney

The annual men's doubles tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 11-12 at Rand Park with the Des Plaines Park District and the Des Plaines Tennis Club co-hosting the event.

Players should enter by mail or deliver their entry blank to the Des Plaines Park District, 748 Pearson in Des Plaines.

Play will begin promptly at 9 a.m. both days and there will be no entry fee although all teams must furnish a new can of balls. Trophies will be awarded to the winners and runners-up.

All players must be residents of the Des Plaines Park District or members of the Des Plaines Tennis Club.

Cheer, cheer for Irish; they look strong again

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Don't waste any tears this year for Dan Devine and the Notre Dame fighting Irish football team.

It could well be much stronger than the team which wound up 8-3 a year ago, with a few breaks might be a strong contender for the national title and almost certainly will be a candidate for a bowl berth.

Notre Dame lost seven starters from the first 22, which left eight veterans on defense and seven on offense, and there's plenty of replacement talent available.

Defense has been the strong point for the Irish the past few years and the offense was shaky at times last year. But for 1976, Devine has ends Ross Browner and Willie Fry, tackle Jeff Weston, linebackers Bob Golic and Doug Becker, and backs Luther Bradley, Mike Banks and Randy Harrison on hand again.

The holes at linebacker can be filled by Tom Eastman, Pete Johnson or Steve Heimkreiter and Devine has switched wide receiver Ted Burgmeier and fullback Jim Browner to the defensive backfield, where Burgmeier played as a freshman, so there should be no great problem developing, and surely he'll find a more than suitable tackle for the remaining spot.

Offensively the Irish could be far more explosive. Rick Slager, who alternated with Joe Montana at quarterback last year, neither of them really winning the job, was impressive in the spring and barring injury has the post nailed down now.

For his passing targets he again has All-America tight end Ken MacAfee, who not only can hold on to the ball under the onslaughts of defensive backs, but also can run over them when he has possession; several possible wide receivers, headed by Kris Haines, and such backs as Al Hunter, Jerome Heavens, Steve Orsini and Dan Knott.

The holes in the offensive line are at center, tackle and one guard. Devine is pretty sure that Dave Huffman, a freshman tight end a year ago, will wind up at center, with Mike Carney at guard along with veteran Ernie Hughes and Steve McDaniels and El-

Borg tops Solomon to take PTC crown

BROOKLINE, Mass. — Wimbledon champ Bjorn Borg controlled the net after a stuttering start Monday night to annex his third straight U.S. Professional tennis championship crown, 6-7, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2, over American Harold Solomon.

The $25,000 victory gave the 20-year-old Borg $182,000 in 1976 earnings.

Borg, a resident of Monte Carlo via Stockholm, finished the three hour match with his 13th service break when Solomon netted a forehand — his downfall in the final three sets played in the chilly 50's.

Each player was broken four times in the first set before Solomon won the tiebreaker 7-3 as Borg was lulled into losing the final three points with backhands into the net.

Solomon, 23, of Silver Spring, Md., continued his solid play through 2-0 of the second set before Borg discovered his backhand, a two-fisted product of his schoolboy hockey days. The Swedish blond then took six of the next eight games to pull the match even as he kept Solomon from the net with deep, hard shots.

White Sox recall 3 from minors

The White Sox, who open a two game, mini homestand tonight against Cleveland, Monday recalled three players to join the team effective Wednesday and eight others to join the team in spring training next year.

First baseman Sam Ewing, leading the American Association in batting with a .360 average, will join the Sox Wednesday and pitcher Chris Knapp and outfielder Wayne Nordhagen will join the team in Minnesota Friday.

It's also expected that the Sox will add coach Minnie Minoso to the active roster sometime after the 25-man roster limit is lifted Wednesday.

Minoso, who would be the first ballplayer to span his career four decades into the 70s, has been taking extensive batting practice during August. He broke in with Cleveland in 1949 and spent 1951-57 and 1960-61 with the Sox.

Also promoted to the Sox roster but who won't join the team until spring training next year are pitchers Roy Thomas, Tim Stoddard, Jim Otten and Jack Kuceck, catcher George Enright, and outfielders Nyls Nyman, Bob Colucio and Morris Nettles.

All of the minor league players called up were with the Sox' Iowa farm team with the exception of Nettles who is with the Toledo, Ohio team.

Seven area golfers make Open cut

Six area golfers whizzed over the par 72 Exmoor Country Club course in 80 and under to survive the first day cut in the 27th Annual Illinois Open Championship at Exmoor Country Club in Highland Park, Ill. Monday.

Al Frazzini of the Freeport Country Club led the way after 18 holes, firing a two-under-70 to top Terry Carlson of Elgin by two strokes. Four others were tied in third place with 73.

Among those four shots off the pace at 74 were Steve Jenne of Rolling Green Country Club, David Nelson of Mt. Prospect at 76 and Nick Zambole (Palatine), Bill Ventresca (Rolling Green) and Al Wietcha (Rob Roy) fired 77s and Palatine Country Club's Steven Cisco forged an 80 to also make the opening day cut.

Other area participants included Chris Marzalek of Arlington Heights and Tom Benjamin of Buffalo Grove at 81 and Bob Nied of Rolling Green at 88.

Bosox' Burleson OK after beaning

BOSTON — Boston Red Sox shortstop Rick Burleson Monday night suffered a minor concussion and a contusion near his left ear when he was struck in the head by a pitch thrown by Bert Blyleven of the Texas Rangers.

Burleson was examined by neurologist Dr. Walter Wegner at Hahnemann Hospital in the Brighton section of the city and was kept overnight for observation.

Wegner said he did not consider the injury to be serious.

Burleson, 25, in the midst of a hitting streak which had lifted his batting average from .260 to .280 in a month, was unconscious when he was carried from the Fenway Park field on a stretcher.

He regained consciousness as he was placed in the ambulance.

3 teams fined in tennis walkout

NEW YORK — No teams from the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Hungary will be permitted to enter any competition sanctioned by the International Lawn Tennis Federation until they each pay a $10,000 fine for introducing politics into the game.

The Management Committee of the ILTF imposed the fines Monday after the three East bloc countries walked out of last week's Federation Cup competition in Philadelphia because of the presence of teams from South Africa and Rhodesia.

The fines were the highest ever imposed by the ILTF. The stiffest previous penalty was the $2,000 levied against the Italian Association in 1973 when it accepted the entry of Yugoslavia's Nikki Pilic for the Italian Open when he was under suspension by his parent Association.

The Philippines, which played and lost in the opening round at Philadelphia and then withdrew from the consolation (for first and second round losers) tournament, was fined $2,500.

Browns hold on to tip Pats, 30-27

CLEVELAND — Fullback Cleo Miller carried 18 times for 80 yards and capped a 52-yard scoring drive by slicing over from the 10-yard line to highlight a 20-point second period Monday night as the Cleveland Browns hung on for a 30-27 pre-season victory over the New England Patriots.

Miller, who also grabbed two passes good for 29 yards, was ejected from the game for unsportsmanlike conduct with 10:01 left in the fourth quarter as the Browns posted their fourth exhibition victory in five outings.

The Patriots came roaring back in the final four minutes as Steve Grogan, who hit on 23 of 38 passes good for 335 yards, passed a 35-yard scoring aerial to Ricky Feacher with 1:33 left in the game and hit Cunningham with a six-yard toss with only 11 seconds remaining for another score.

Youth cycling

Meadowhill Park

Stock bike races concluded at Meadowhill Park race track on Aug. 27.

Staged by the Northbrook Park District and the Northbrook Bicycle Club, the races increased in both number of participants and the quality of the riders.

Prizes were awarded to the first three riders in each race. Plans are being discussed to resume the stock bike races in May of 1977.

The results of the final night of racing: 11-13 years — Terry Anderson, W. Dundee; Craig McGinn, Northbrook; Mitch Grebe, Northbrook; Tracy Heinrichs, Highland Park.

11 years old and under — John Cavanaugh, Northbrook; Frank Filardi, Park Ridge; Shawn Edwards, Northbrook; Rich Spirek, Arlington Heights.

14-15 year olds — Jim Petrowski, Park Ridge; Tom Gebhardt, Park Ridge; Peter Gilbertson, Northbrook.

16 years and over — Mike King, Wilmette; Tom Warner, Prospect Heights; Earl Glazer, Northbrook; Chuck Kenard, Mount Prospect.

Irish look solid again

ton Moore at tackles.

But there is at least one challenger and maybe more behind each one of the starting positions so there should be little concern about most injuries.

"We feel very comfortable with our backfield situation," Devine said, "but development of an offensive line rates top priority.

"We were awfully young last year and the year's experience should pay dividends in some areas."

The Irish have a tougher schedule than usual and could get a comparative rating of the team in the season opener Sept. 11, on national television against Pittsburgh, which beat Notre Dame 34-20 last year.

It could be the Irish chance for a national crown will be determined Nov. 13. That day they play Alabama.

Lockport next for champ Trojans

The Arlington Heights Park District 12-inch softball championship was settled when the Trojans came from behind for the fifth time this year to defeat the Hustlers, 6-5.

The Trojans, 12-1 on the season, trailed 5-2 entering the final inning, but loaded the bases on three singles. A sacrifice fly brought one run home before a barrage of four consecutive singles drove home the winner.

The defensive struggle was highlighted by a scoreless duel through the opening three innings. The Trojans broke through for a pair of runs in the fourth, but the Hustlers knotted the score with two in the sixth before assuming a 5-2 edge in the seventh.

The Trojans gained the championship game berth by defeating the Wild Bunch, 14-5, while the Hustlers were whipping Gatehouse Apartments, 15-9.

The Trojan triumph earned a trip to Lockport this weekend for a 24-team tournament over Labor Day. The double-elimination tourney will be held at old Rte. 53 and Airport Rd. at Crouther Field. The Trojans open play Saturday morning.

Trojan team members include Craig Reider, Tom Frisbie, Mike Auxier, Tom Jarm, Larry Geyer, John Meyer, J. Pinekos, Bill Jarm, Tom Cummings, Rick Michalski, Tom Heimsoth, Jim Wallner and Dean Maeds.

After 25 years, the beat goes on

Branca relives Thomson's homer

by IRA BERKOW

"There are only three events in our time that everyone remembers where he was when he first heard the news," says Ralph Branca today.

"Pearl Harbor is one. John Kennedy's assassination is another. And the third? The third is Bobby Thomson's home run off me."

The first two were tragedies of international magnitude; the third is usually associated with the indomitability of the human spirit, unless perhaps you were a Brooklyn Dodger fan — or the Dodger pitcher in the Polo Grounds that fateful fall afternoon in 1951.

It is 25 years ago this October: the Dodgers had been leading the second place New York Giants in the National League pennant race by 13 and a half games in mid-August. They seemed uncatchable.

But the Giants then began the most dazzling comeback in baseball history and tied the Dodgers at season's end. A three-game playoff ensued. They split the first two.

In the ninth inning of the deciding game, the Dodgers led 4-1. The Giants were at bat in the bottom of the ninth.

Don Newcombe, the Dodger pitcher, gave up a single, another single — then a pop out — but then a one-run double. 4-2, two men on and Bobby Thomson comes to the plate.

Ralph Branca, a husky 6-3 right-hander, is brought in from the Brooklyn bullpen. His first pitch is a strike. His second pitch was a high inside fastball. Thomson, the lean Scot, swung and the ball drifted high toward left field.

"He outguessed me," recalls Branca, "and then I didn't have my good mustard on the pitch. But I watched the ball and it had a lot of overspin and it was sinking and I thought it might stay in the ballpark. But the fence was only about 300 feet from the plate. Bobby and I are friends today, we sometimes even see each other socially. He admits it was a Chinese homer."

There is on tape today the voice of Giant broadcaster, Russ Hodges, screaming — SCREAMING — above the giant din of the wild crowd, "The Giants win the pennant! The Giants win the pennant!"

A New York writer wrote: ". . . When Thomson reached first base he turned and looked toward the leftfield stands. Then he started jumping straight up in the air, again and again. Then he trotted around the bases, taking his time.

"Ralph Branca turned and started for the clubhouse. The number on his uniform looked huge. Thirteen."

Ralph Branca is now 50 years old, an insurance broker living in White Plains, New York. He has a generous nose, expansive face and mellow demeanor. He rides a stationary bicycle at home for exercise now.

He participated in an Old Timers Day game at Yankee Stadium recently and wore a Dodgers' uniform; the blue cap bore the white insignia "L.A." instead of the old "B" for Brooklyn. But the number on the back of his uniform is still "13."

"The number never bothered me. I never felt I was unlucky with it," Branca said, in the carpeted Yankee clubhouse. "I got the number when I was a rookie in 1944. The clubhouse man said that it was the only uniform my size, but that if I was superstitious he could change the number on the back.

"Well, I thought it might be lucky. I'm one of 13 kids in the family. And I was always the kind to defy superstition: I'd walk under a ladder, or step on a sidewalk line.

"It didn't bother me in my early years in the big leagues. I won 20 games in a season before I was 21 years old. Only six pitchers in history ever did that. Can you name them?

"They were Bobby Feller — everyone gets that one — and Wes Farrell, Lefty Gomez, Christy Mathewson — they called him 'The Big Six,' and me. That's five, Number six? Babe Ruth! That's right. He was a helluva pitcher, and to be in that kind of company, well . . .

"In the spring of 1952, I went to training camp and the clubhouse man handed me uniform number 12. I was livid. But the club prevailed upon me. In those days, ballplayers didn't have the strength of independence with owners they have today.

"Things were beginning to go bad now. I hurt my arm in a freak accident in an exhibition game in Japan with the Dodgers over that winter. I was traded to Detroit the next season and I wound up my career after 1956 at age 31.

"I won 88 games in my career, which isn't so bad, and lost 68. (After 1954, however, Branca won only 12 games while losing 12.) But today, all anybody remembers is that pitch I threw to Thomson. They call it 'The hit heard 'round the world.' And they say it was the Miracle at Coogan's Bluff.

"Thomson and I kid about it. I tell him I made him a hero. He tells me he made me famous. And I guess he did. I think it's been a big help, for example, in my business. I call on somebody and they immediately know me. They want to talk baseball.

"Sure, it used to be painful. But I didn't suffer that long with the memory, maybe five years. Ten at the most. As I get more mature, I was able to place it in perspective.

"My friends really bled for me, though. They ask people who criticize me, 'Who would you say the manager was going to bring in at that crucial moment, his best pitcher or his worst?'

"No, it's not disheartening. I feel it's a plus that I'm a part of history, that I was involved in such a memorable moment. People are always coming up to me and saying, 'I was walking down 187th street when it happened.

'Or, I was in the service in Korea and I heard it on the radio'. . .One entertainer, a well known singer, told me he was in the process of losing his virginity when he heard the homer." Branca laughed softly.

"I still love to throw a baseball. I used to pitch batting practice a lot with the Mets when Gil Hodges was managing them. Since he died, I don't do it much anymore. But even those old-timers day games, I like to be out there, feeling the ball, looking at the stands, winding up and throwing.

"I guess I'm remembering my youth and that I had succeeded in my dream of pitching in the big leagues, and now I'm an old man on the mound recalling that dream."

Football rules meeting slated

All area coaches and officials are invited to attend a football rules interpretation meeting Thursday, Sept. 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the Rolling Meadows High School theater.

Charles Hillman, representing the Illinois High School Assn., will be the primary speaker.

Fencing tourney plans registration

Registration for participation in the third annual Amateur Fencers League of America (A.F.L.A.) Dist. 19 fencing tournament begins Tuesday, Sept. 7.

Those wishing to participate in the tournament must register through the A.F.L.A. Fee payment is required at the time of registration.

The tournament will be held Oct. 9, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., at the Elk Grove High School Fieldhouse, 500 W. Elk Grove Blvd. Spectators are welcome. For further information contact Al Hattendorf at 437-8780.

12-lap feature heads Santa Fe

A trio of hard-charging motorcyclists battle down to the wire for their initial Santa Fe Speedway track championship this Wednesday night, Sept. 1. Headlining the lightning-quick two-wheeled card is a 12-lap feature on the quarter-mile clay oval. Starting time is 8 p.m.

Riders who have a shot for the track title are Guy McClure of Fort Worth, Tex., Steve Elo out of Niles, Mich., and Garth Brow from Flint, Mich. McClure, veteran Lone Star State short-tracker, finished third in overall points last year at Santa Fe. Elo, hottest rider on the oval the last month, will be trying to capture the Sante Fe title after a seventh place finish last year.

Other riders who have ridden well at the southwest side clay oval include Michael Johnson of Chicago, David Leonard from East Leroy, Mich. and defending champion Terry Poovey.

Santa Fe Speedway is located at 91st and Wolf Road in Willow Springs, Ill.

A holiday on rails? Five Amtrak tours

Five new tour programs featuring railway holidays to Canada, the Eastern states, Tennessee and Florida have been introduced this summer by Amtrak.

• Canada. "The French Way" tours include coach transportation between New York, Montreal, and Quebec City. The Montreal package, including three nights at the Hotel Windsor, some meals and sightseeing is $165 double occupancy. Quebec City is $259, including five nights at the Quebec Hilton. The Montreal-Quebec City combination is $275 with three nights at the Quebec Hilton and two at the Windsor. Montreal tours are available through Dec. 31. Those including Quebec City are available through Oct. 31.

"Montreal, Toronto and Quebec City Holidays" are effective until May 31, 1977. The two-night Montreal tour, $56 plus rail fare, includes sightseeing, continental breakfasts and a choice of hotels such as the Queen Elizabeth, Ritz Carlton and Lowes La Cite. The Quebec City tour, $72, and Toronto tour, $109, include round-trip transportation to each city from Montreal by motorcoach or railway.

• Williamsburg. The Williamsburg packages begin at $67.80 for two nights at one of three modern inns. All packages include tickets to Colonial Williamsburg and Busch Gardens plus some meals. Rail fare is not included Tours are offered through Dec. 31.

• Colonial Corridor. "Weekend of City Lights and Country Sights" offers a choice of 14 Hilton hotels or inns in Boston, Providence, Hartford, New York, Rye and Tarrytown, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and Williamsburg. Packages start at $44 and tours are effective until Dec. 31.

The "Weekend Escapades" programs offer five hotels in New York and Washington with rates as low as $17.76. Sunday morning breakfast and an afternoon bus trip to the Antique Center are included. Tours are effective through 1976.

• Nashville. The "Visit Opryland" tour package offers both reserved seats at the Grand Old Opry and admission to the Opryland entertainment center and includes two nights at a choice of five motels, signtseeing and transfers. The package is $64.50 plus rail fare and is effective through Dec. 31.

• Florida. "Florida Sunland" week vacations go for as little as $24 plus rail fares. More than 50 hotels and motels in Miami Beach and another 50 in the City of Miami, Hollywood, Pompano Beach, Ft. Lauderdale, Palm Beach, Sarasota, St. Petersburg, Tampa and Walt Disney World are listed in the brochure. The tour is effective until December.

"Roamin' Holidays" program provides a motorhome with seven days and up to 600 free miles for as little as $199. The first night is at an Outdoor Resorts of America site five miles from Walt Disney World. The tour is effective through April, 1977.

Information on tours is available from Amtrak agents and Amtrak offices. Free brochures are available by writing: Amtrak Travel Center, P.O. Box 262, Addison, Ill., 60101.

Let's eat!

Where your train goes determines the menu

Hominy grits, French pamplemousse, chiliburgers and Colorado trout are just some of the featured entrees on Amtrak's new Bicentennial summer menu.

The menu varies with the territory covered by Amtrak lines. For instance, at breakfast you can get fresh strawberries with cream on the New York-Chicago Broadway Limited but the specialty is hominy grits on the Panama Limited running between Chicago and the Deep South. On the bilingual Montrealer you may pick between French pamplemousse or English grapefruit, (which by the way are almost the same).

Lunch on Amtrak's service running on the Mexican border features the "Sunset Limited Special" — a chiliburger served with chopped onions and cheese. A steak sandwich served on toasted French bread is a favorite on the San Francisco Zephyr and Yankee pot roast appears on the Lake Shore Limited menu between Chicago, New York and Boston.

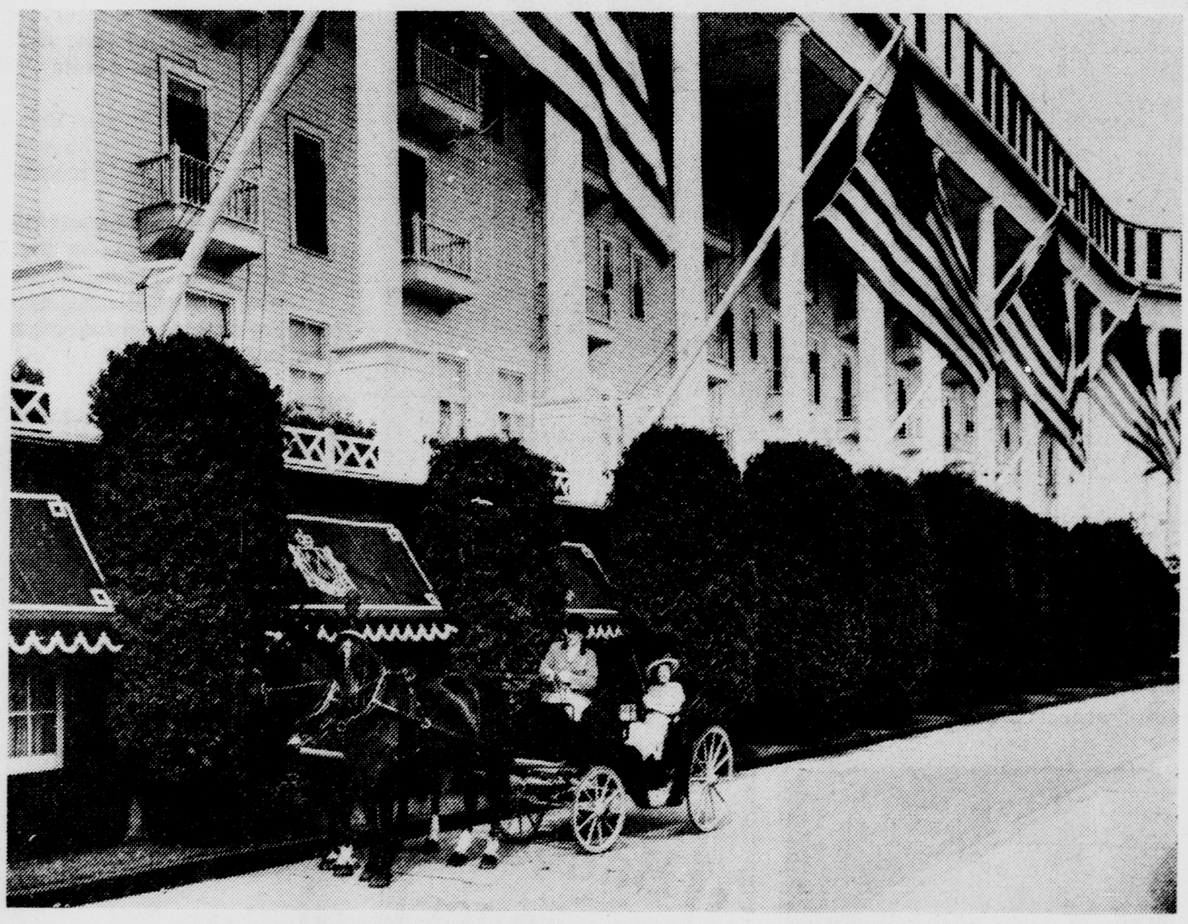
DINNER MENUS are larger and offer a wider variety of entrees. For example, the fish selections on the Empire Builder running along the Canadian border through Montana and North Dakota is northern pike, while Colorado trout is a favorite on the San Francisco Zephyr, which stops in Denver. Broiled salmon is served on the Coast Starlight terminating at Seattle, red snapper on the Long Star terminating in Houston; halibut steak on the Broadway Limited, and filet of sole on the Montrealer.

The "Fun Food Train" children's menu features peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, a junior sundae and milk for $1 to those under age 12.

Prices for dinner range from $3.25 for filet of sole to $7.25 for a 10-ounce New York cut sirloin with salad, dessert and beverage. A mixed drink is $1.50, beer goes for 75 cents and a half-bottle of wine can be purchased for $2.

The menus' four-color-cover designs are montages of Americana, each containing a painting of Amtrak's newest equipment, the Amfleet.

BICENTENNIAL MENUS on Amtrak lines feature a variety of entrees differing with the geographic regions covered by the trains.



MACKINAC ISLAND'S Grand Hotel, now enjoying its 90th season, continues its spirit of graciousness and elegance that has made it a popular Michigan vacation resort for several generations.

Canada invites visitors to feast at big berry fete

Fields of ripening Canada blueberries in Nova Scotia's Cumberland County make the Blueberry Harvest Festival a feast for the eyes as well as the palate.

This year the festival will be held over a two-week period — Sept. 5 to 18 — in the towns of Amherst, Springhill, Pugwash, Parrsboro, and Minudie, with most of the events scheduled for two weekends — Sept. 8 to 12, and 15 to 18.

At this time of the year the blueberry is king, and is found in almost everything: Pies, pancakes, ice cream, cakes, jams and sauces.

The festival begins in Minudie, with the Blessing of the Crops, an Acadian ceremony dating back to the French tradition of blessing vintage grapes. Local residents, dressed in Acadian costumes, serve traditional Acadian food at a large outdoor barbecue. Entertainment is provided by local Acadian dancers, singers and musicians.

The Atlantic Old Time Fiddle Contest is set for Springhill — Sept. 16. This festival event will bring together some of the best fiddlers from Atlantic and central Canada and the eastern United States.

Grand Hotel: just like an old friend

Now in its 90th season, this summer resort gets better with age

The guest list at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island, Mich., shows that children often follow in the footsteps of their parents.

R. Daniel Musser, president of this, the largest summer hotel in the world, takes periodic surveys of the guest list at the hostelry, now in its 90th year.

The most recent survey, following the pattern of many others in the past, shows that not only do previous guests return again and again to the Grand Hotel, but their offspring, who have heard their parents describe its charm and excitement also decide on the Grand for their vacations.

"THE GRAND HOTEL has long been a happy spot for honeymooners," Musser said, "as well as for young marrieds who appreciate the many activities offered on the 500-acre hotel grounds, from the serpentine pool to the baseball field, the tennis courts and other aras."

Musser said that many of the honeymooners and young marrieds not only heard their parents talk but had come to the Grand with their families when they were children. They remember happily many of the offerings of the island, where no automobiles are allowed, where one can imagine himself part of an exploring party taking off along the many different horseback trails and foot trails that wind through the 1,600-acre Mackinac Island State Park adjoining the hotel.

The two-block-long main street, too, is a tourist favorite, a picture post card come to life with its shops that offer everything from fine bone china, imported linens and exclusive clothing, to souvenirs, and curios. For others, there is Fort Mackinac, built by the British in 1780 on the top of a bluff.

The Grand, a gracious white Grecian structure, spanned by the longest porch in the world, is the magnet that has drawn visitors back again and again. They enjoy gourmet food in the sumptuous main dining room with its elegant service, an evening concert and the informality of the cocktail hour.

"WHERE BUT ON an island," asked Musser, "can you get away from it all to relax and enjoy golf, swimming, tennis, horseback riding, bicycling and social recreation, all in beautiful natural surroundings?"

"Unlike some hotels that are 'in' for only a short season, that are popular only because they are new, the Grand Hotel's charm has proven to be timeless," he said.

The all-pervasive atmosphere of the hotel's Victorian charm contains all of the modern conveniences. Millions of dollars have been spent in recent years at Grand Hotel to renovate without disturbing, and remodel without distracting from the loveliness and unique qualities of the hotel.

The 1976 season, through mid-October, evidently will repeat the many seasons of the past, with family groups, honeymooners, young marrieds, sports enthusiasts and businessmen choosing the Grand Hotel, not only because they heard about it but because once you've been there, you want to go back.

Alaska hotel invites white fox hunters

A new hotel has opened in the remote Arctic Islands of Canada.

"The White Fox," in the small trapping community of Sachs Harbour, population 170, is located more than 400 miles north of the Arctic Circle where hunters search for the plentiful white fox.

The hotel now accommodates 12 persons with all modern facilities. Meals are available in a small but comfortable dining room. Although there is no television in Sachs Harbour and radio reception is sporadic, the barren, rocky countryside in summer, and the assortment of stretched polar bear skins and freshly-caught white fox, offer much more appealing viewing for visitors.
